URGE MERGER OF JUSTICE COURTS

Lawyers Request Board To Employ Public Defender Here

Despite a "sit down strike" of five leading Democratic attorneys, the Orange County Bar association last night adopted unanimously a resolution opposing President Roosevelt's plan to enlarge the supreme court.

The group named a committee to ask the board of supervisors to employ a public defender and do away with the practice of appointing practicing attorneys to defend indigents free of charge.

They voted in favor of reducing the number of justice courts in Orange county from 11 to two, and forwarded the result to the Farm bureau, which had asked for an expression of opinion.

Two Democrats and one Republican drew the resolution on the supreme court. They were R. C. Mize and George Holden, Democrats, and Stanley Reinhaus, Republican.

B. Z. McKinney, chairman of the Orange County Democratic central committee, who called on Democrats to ignore the meeting because he said the large number of Republican members made the outcome of the vote certain, was not there. Neither were Horace C. Head, Sharpless Walker, Martell Thompson and Clyde C. Down.

RUSH STARTS TO PAY TAX

The last-minute rush is on for payment of income taxes. Officials of the U. S. internal revenue office announced today they were being swamped by late returns.

They also announced that if you haven't already done so you'd better get your returns filed today.

With the deadline for payments at the Santa Ana office set for 9 p. m. Monday a huge number of the returns yet to be come in. Failure to file by the deadline entails penalties ranging from 5 per cent to 25 per cent of the tax, plus interest at 6 per cent.

The original 5 per cent penalty is for delay up to 30 days. After that the penalty increases at the rate of 5 per cent a month up to the 25 per cent maximum.

Federal income tax returns may be filed at the local internal revenue office, on the second floor of the post office building.

SAFETY DRIVE CATCHES 22

Police issued 22 citations yesterday in their drive against careless motorists in Santa Ana.

Nineteen will answer to speeding charges as a result of their being cited.

As evidence that Chief of Police Floyd Howard was in earnest in his intention to prosecute minors who drive without licenses, six citations were issued yesterday against minors and their parents.

Mission Awaits Bird War

Swooping, darting swifts, which have occupied nests in the eaves at Mission San Juan Capistrano, are becoming "jittery" today.

The huge flocks of birds seem to know that next Friday they will fight with returning swallows for their homes, and will lose the annual battle.

Each year this fight takes place on March 19. Huge flocks of swallows arrive at the mission during the day and battle with the swifts, which make their home in the eaves throughout the winter. The swallows always win, and take over the old homes for the summer season, leaving for South America in October.

Again this year the arrival will be the subject for a national broadcast, with NBC to have a

Paralyzed Nurses Will Fight to Remain Outside County Hospital

TRANSFER IS PLANNED BY OFFICIALS

Request for Shift Taken Under Advisement by State Commission

Developments have begun to take place rapidly in the movement to return to the county hospital two nurses in other institutions, who were afflicted with infantile paralysis two years ago while working in the county hospital.

Here is the situation as it stands today:

1. Orange county officials are awaiting action by the state industrial accident commission on their request for permission to transfer the nurses to the county hospital. A hearing was held yesterday at Los Angeles.

2. The two nurses flatly refused to return to the county hospital.

3. Nurses afflicted with paralysis, under treatment at the county hospital, are happy and have no complaints to make.

4. Commissioner Charles A. Son of the industrial accident commission commended Orange county action in its treatment of the nurses.

5. Dr. Francis McKeever of Los Angeles, orthopedic surgeon for the county hospital, today began a new clinic service at the hospital for the nurses afflicted with paralysis.

Following the conference, Riley

PITTMAN HAS COURT PLAN

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), a judiciary committee member supporting the Roosevelt court bill, proposed today that the suggested increase in the size of the supreme court be unconditional and permanent.

His proposal, the first from an administration leader for a change in the President's bill, would enlarge the tribunal to 15 members even if justices over 70 retire.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended an increase only in the event older justices remained on the bench.

Pittman suggestion was advanced as the judiciary committee took a week-end recess in the hearings on the court bill. Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) will open opposition testimony Monday.

Aftermath of Paralysis

What Do the Sufferers Have to Say?

Today another infantile paralysis problem faces Orange county.

It is the aftermath of the epidemic which hit this section in 1934. At that time 24 nurses in the county hospital were afflicted with the dread disease while ministering to paralysis patients.

These nurses are in varying stages of recovery and are receiving varying amounts of compensation for which the county is taking the financial responsibility.

Today's main problem relates to two of these nurses, being cared for outside the county hospital. In order to reduce expense, the county has applied to the state industrial accident commission for permission to transfer these nurses to the county hospital. A hearing was held yesterday in Los Angeles and a decision is expected soon.

The hearing has aroused public interest in the matter. In order to inform the public on all sides of the question, The Journal is printing below the statements of the two nurses outside the hospital, who do not wish to return; and with them are statements of nurses in the county hospital, who express happiness and satisfaction over their treatment there. These statements are published in the three columns below.

Nurse Griggs:

Grace Griggs is learning to walk again.

She is the second of the two nurses receiving treatment for infantile paralysis outside of the Orange county hospital. The board of supervisors would move her back here, if the state industrial accident commission would permit it.

But Grace Griggs would refuse to come back. She says she has had a chance at recovery only since she left the county hospital. She would demand a public hearing if attempts were made to force her return.

"I Won't Go Back"

"I was 20 months in the county hospital," she said, "and during that time I improved not a bit. I have been in the Cottage Hospital in Fullerton for nine months—and I am learning to walk again. I won't go back!"

Why not? Grace Griggs says there are many reasons:

First, she says the Orange county hospital does not have adequate or necessary equipment for treatment of polio cases. Second, she contends the food is bad—she cited instances of spoiled food being served patients and nurses. Other reasons have to do with hospital personnel and physicians.

"Just Another Case"

In Fullerton she is under the care of a private physician, who donates much of his time to her case, she says, with good results. At the county hospital she feels she would be "just another polio nurse."

Today she receives $7 a day for private room, board and general care, and $2.50 a day for regular treatment, and various other amounts for special treatments, medicines, braces and doctor's supervision, besides her disability compensation payments of $37 a month.

Fears Setback

It would be less expensive to treat Grace Griggs at the county hospital—but she explains that where she is she is learning to walk.

"Any trouble, or a court fight, over an attempt to force my return to the county hospital probably will set me back in my fight for recovery," she said, "but I'll chance it rather than go back there."

"I'll fight, like I did before, when I got transferred here. I'll never go back."

Offers to Go to Jail for Townsend

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Boon Carson, Portland attorney, offered more than legal assistance today to Dr. Francis E. Townsend in his contempt conviction. He sent the following wire to the pension leader:

"Most earnestly insist you let me serve the 30 days in jail for you. Your most loyal supporter, Club 52."

MOLLISON WANTS DIVORCE

LONDON, (AP)—Capt. James A. Mollison, Australian long distance flier, said today he has asked his wife, Amy Johnson Mollison, for a divorce. "There is no ill feeling," he said. "We are just going our own ways."

Other Nurses:

Out at the county hospital, center of the polio nurse controversy, you don't find the afflicted nurses complaining.

In fact Marie Corey, who is just regaining use of her legs after two years of treatment, turned out to be happy, full of hope, and taking advantage of opportunities for study and advancement.

"I never thought I'd have time and money to take any more schooling," she told The Journal. "The Rehabilitation service provides a teacher, and I'm learning typing."

And as soon as she can walk a little better, she may take a laboratory course at the hospital. The course, she said, ordinarily is expensive, but much desired by nurses, as it opens the way to an interesting and well paid field.

Miss Biffel Cagle, another of the nurse victims, already is taking the course and goes home evenings.

Miss Corey lives in a cheery little room in a special bungalow built at the hospital in 1936 for the nurses. Each girl has a radio, bookshelf, and similar comforts. A nurse is in attendance at the bungalow, and there is a special kitchen in which the food is prepared.

Show Improvement

She and Mary V. Parks, who has a room in the main hospital building, both reported that they are showing improvement and gain in the use of their legs.

For Dr. Llewellyn Wilson, chief resident physician, there was much praise from the nurses, and an expression of concern at the possibility that he may take another position.

At the hospital, one nurse pointed out, there is a special pool with heated water for treatment of the polio cases. An electric hoist lifts the nurses from their wheel chairs and deposits them in the warm water for exercising.

NEWPORT GETS ROLPH'S SHIP

ANTIOCH, Calif. (AP)—The four-masted bark Annie Rolph, once the pride of the late Governor Rolph's fleet, is being towed by the steam power she once despised to Newport Beach, where she is to be remodeled as a fishing barge. For nearly five years she has been in the ship graveyard across the river from here.

30 Injured in Political Riot

BRUSSELS, (AP)—Thirty persons were injured today when rioting flared in the contest between Premier Paul Van Zeeland and Leon DeGrelle, the Fascist leader, for a seat in parliament.

Socialists and Axiests, the latter members of a group headed by DeGrelle, fought in the suburbs. Van Zeeland decided, meanwhile, not to make a radio appeal to the electorate since DeGrelle had been barred from the air.

Nurse Booher:

Florence Booher lies flat on her back in a tiny apartment across the street from the Los Angeles Orthopedic hospital.

She has been lying there for 14 months, a victim of dread infantile paralysis, contracted while nursing at Orange county hospital during the 1934 paralysis epidemic.

Twice she has been on the verge of cures, twice she has been able to rise from her bed, and each time she has collapsed again—her condition worse than before.

Today she is only able to hobble to the lavatory, and padlock about in the hospital pool.

She blames her condition on the treatment she received while she was a patient in the Orange county hospital.

"I was treated so abominably at that hospital," she told a Journal reporter, "that I would never go back there. Not even if they took every cent of my compensation from me. I would depend on the charity of my friends first."

That, in essence, was Florence Booher's answer when she was asked on questions of law and fact, on questions of law and fact, to state her opinion on the case. She has decided impartially, Judge Ames' affidavit said in part.

Duty To Act

He said he was acquainted with the objectors only through their appearance in court, that he has no personal acquaintance with W. Carl Spencer, executor of the estate, and that he knows the attorneys only through the court, and to no greater degree than he knows the majority of lawyers in Orange county.

Judge Ames said he "has no desire to try and matter, but feels it is his duty as judge of the superior court to try all matters that may properly come before him, and has no desire to shirk such duty, even though an alleged affidavit of fixed opinion, bias, and prejudice, which he believes has no foundation in law or fact, is filed in the cause."

WILL SEEK NEW INDICTMENTS

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Chief Deputy District Attorney William Simpson said today he would ask the county grand jury to return new indictments against the 347 sit-down strikers who occupied the Douglas Aircraft Corp. factory for three days two weeks ago.

Attorneys for the United Automobile Workers, executive division, contended in demurrers the previous indictment, charging the sit-downers with taking possession illegally of the plant, were insufficient. The decision to ask new indictments was reached at a conference with union lawyers and representatives of the district attorney's office. The defendants are to be arraigned next Tuesday.

Water Impounded By Santiago Dam Worth $370,750

Four p. m. today was expected to be the deadline. At that time water was expected to spill over Santiago dam for the first time in history.

There now are 24,850 acre feet of water impounded in a huge lake back of the dam northeast of Orange. For irrigation purposes it is estimated that this water is worth about $370,750. Capacity of the dam is 25,000 acre feet of water.

A total of 1.20 inches of rainfall during the last 24 hours in the dam area had sent the water level up to within three inches of the spillway at noon today. Water still was pouring into the lake at a rate expected to send it over the top of the dam at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

AMES FIGHTS PREJUDICE CHARGE

Judge Resists Attempt To Disqualify Him
In Will Fight

Presiding Superior Judge Homer G. Ames ordered his own trial on charges of "bias and prejudice" in connection with the $2,500,000 Fannie Bixby Spencer estate.

He filed in court an affidavit in which he replied to charges of George D. Higgins, attorney for two heirs who have fought the administration of the estate.

Judge Ames asserted he has no interest in the estate, and only slight acquaintance with any of the attorneys or others connected with it, and no prejudice against the claims of Higgins' clients, Mrs. Elizabeth Irving Bixby and Miss Lillian Odisho Bajan.

Had Judge Ames left the bias charge unanswered, the case automatically would have been transferred to Judge James L. Allen's court.

The answer makes it necessary for Higgins and attorneys for the estate to agree upon a judge to try Judge Ames on the question of his qualification to hear the case. Should they disagree, the chief justice of the state supreme court, will appoint a judge to hear the case.

Judge Ames himself once sat in such a case, trying a San Diego superior judge on the matter of qualification.

Mrs. Bixby and Miss Bajan have brought several actions against the estate; once in a civil case in Los Angeles, which they lost; once in an appeal of an order in the local court, which they lost also in the state supreme court.

Scovel Disqualified

At one time Superior Judge G. K. Scovel disqualified himself from handling matters in connection with the estate.

Recently the objectors filed a new objection in which they charged they were victims of a conspiracy between the executors and the trustees of the estate to prevent distribution to them.

Though Higgins filed last Monday an affidavit seeking to disqualify Judge Ames on grounds he had ruled adversely to them in other matters, and that he had "fixed bias and prejudice."

The case has been continued to April 8, when the judge will hear the bias trial. This answering judge admits he has decided certain other questions adversely to the objectors, but states that wherever such decisions have been made, they have been made sitting as a judge of the court, on questions of law and fact, and presented to him, and he has decided impartially, Judge Ames' affidavit said in part.

He said he was acquainted with the objectors only through their appearance in court, that he has no personal acquaintance with W. Carl Spencer, executor of the estate, and that he knows the attorneys only through the court, and to no greater degree than he knows the majority of lawyers in Orange county.

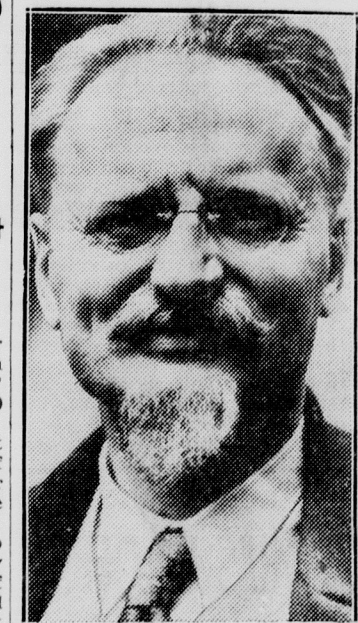

Judge Ames said he "has no desire to try and matter, but feels it is his duty as judge of the superior court to try all matters that may properly come before him, and has no desire to shirk such duty, even though an alleged affidavit of fixed opinion, bias, and prejudice, which he believes has no foundation in law or fact, is filed in the cause."

SHIP ABLAZE ON PACIFIC

Eight Passengers Take to Lifeboats; Cruiser
Rushes to Aid

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Radio advices to the U. S. S. Louisville today said the eight passengers of the burning British motorship Silverlarch had abandoned the craft in lifeboats.

Globe Wireless reported intercepting a radio message from Captain F. H. Henderson of the Silverlarch which said the fire was "creeping" again.

"We will stand by until you arrive," the master told the Louisville.

The cruiser Louisville, speeding at 28 knots toward the burning motorship, was expected to reach here late today.

The Louisville, on a shakedown cruise after overhaul, sped toward the freighter after a distress call from the Silverlarch master had said.

"Afraid cannot control fire in No. 3 hold. Will ship take note. Would like to transfer passengers."

The burning ship was about 400 miles northeast of Honolulu, her crew of about 40 men wearied from fighting fire for several days.

Customs papers at Los Angeles harbor identified the passengers, all believed to be Americans on a world tour, as three women—M. W. Weller, H. A. Weller and K. Grenfell—and five men—J. C. Lewis, C. N. Camp, H. Dorbert, A. K. Wilson and G. Norris. No addresses were given.

To the Wayne county court at Detroit was transferred temporarily the controversy between the United Automobile Workers, a CIO union, and the Chrysler corporation. Arguments in the corporation's plea for legal ouster of 5000 sit-downers from its plants jammed the courthouse and brought a picket line to the building itself. The court deferred decision until Monday.

On the steel front, the Blawnox company and four subsidiaries announced signing of a union contract granting its 3000 workers a 40-hour week, $5 daily minimum wage and bargaining recognition.

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—Mrs. Hale Holden, Jr., sports woman and society leader, was found dead at her home in suburban Haverford yesterday, hanging from a noose made from the belt of a dress.

Coroner Winslow J. Rushong of Montgomery county today reported the death as suicide. Her two children, Joan, 12, and Hale Holden, third, 7, said they did not see their mother after they returned from school.

Holden, vice-president of the Pullman company, returned from a business trip to New York a few hours later and found the body.

BOURGES, France, (AP)—Seven persons were reported killed and 10 injured in a wreck of a railway train today near the village of Corquoy, 20 miles from here.

'BEATS' GIVEN VESSELS OF 4 NATIONS

Protest of Action Is Filed With Geneva
By Loyal Spain

LONDON, (AP)—As the warships of four great powers—Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy—began taking over "beats" to police the Spanish coasts in enforcement of the 27 nation arms-and-men embargo, the Spanish government protested to Geneva.

Italian and German warships, the note declared, "will attack Barcelona and Valencia under pretext of guarding the coast."

German Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop told British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden the reich strongly objected to entering a new western European security pact on present suggested lines.

He called on Eden shortly after German and Italian notes were received stating, authoritative sources said, similar objections.

French official sources, on a basis of the German note, believed Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was preparing to sign a treaty of assistance with General Franco to offset French pacts with Poland and Czechoslovakia, if the Spanish insurgents win the civil war.

Further vital steps, supplementing the naval cordon, remained to be taken before the "heads off Spain" lines could be drawn tightly about the civil war.

Three newly appointed supervisors of the international blockade, chosen by the neutral committee ended months of bickering over details and principles, planned to meet in London Monday to complete plans.

They must provide for recruiting of frontier agents to be stationed on the French and Portuguese borders of Spain, a task committee (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

G. M. DISPUTE IS SETTLED

(By the Associated Press)

Industrial union enthusiasts counted one big gain in the automotive industry today and pressed campaigns in other fields.

Final agreement in the General Motors strike, affecting 135,000 employees, brought wage, hour and other concessions to an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, but did not achieve the national minimum hourly wage nor 30-hour week goal. Ratification by union locals was withheld temporarily.

To the Wayne county court at Detroit was transferred temporarily the controversy between the United Automobile Workers, a CIO union, and the Chrysler corporation. Arguments in the corporation's plea for legal ouster of 5000 sit-downers from its plants jammed the courthouse and brought a picket line to the building itself. ## BOYS ARE TO RULE CITY MONDAY

De Molay Order Makes Plans to Take Over All Offices

There'll be a hot time in the old town Monday. And if you've done anything to displease young folks during the past you'd better stay under cover that day!

Because Monday is the day members of the De Molay take over the reins of city government in their youthful hands. And the youngsters have their own ideas as to how city affairs should be run. Last year they made things a little uncomfortable for a lot of people, who fell into the clutches of the enthusiastic "police" and other "officials," who reigned supreme for the day.

Even newspapermen will be ousted for the day, their places being filled by boys who will run the whole show. The event is designed to give the boys an insight into city affairs.

Staff Listed

Mayor Fred C. Rowland will turn over his duties to a new mayor, Warren Mann. The powers of the police force will be in the hands of Hans Bergsetzer, police and building inspector. And if you meet Clyde Elies treat him with respect, because he's the street commissioner.

Fires will be the province of Herbert Lyan, fire commissioner and water that of Ralph Pagenkopp, water commissioner. Police chief will be Dick Horton, a fellow you'd better treat with respect. And if the youngsters should knock any buildings down, it'll be up to Philip Yould, building inspector, to take care of the matter.

Inspectors

Crimes will be detected by Glenn Cave, detective inspector, aided by Bill Musick, assistant police chief. Walter Swenberger will act as forestry superintendent; George Dawson as desk sergeant and Jim Dudley, electrical inspector.

Other officials of the day are as follows:

Kenneth Warren, plumbing inspector; Alvin Dehne, fire marshal; Clinton Roemer, assistant fire chief; Howard Moore, patrolman; Jack Foster, assistant building inspector; Dean Gowdy, assistant street superintendent; Bob King, city engineer; Will Raul, assistant city engineer; Paul Wolnen, fire chief; Glenn Towner, police captain; Don Anderson, fire captain; Jack Trippett, chief clerk of water department.

Other Officers

Paul Rez, water superintendent; Shelley Horton, city attorney; Bob Fowler, city judge; Elson Gaeb, city clerk; Victor Allenan, district license inspector; Jack Wood, city health inspector; Aldon Allenan, chairman forestry board; Creighton Hunter, chairman planning commission; Carl Carlson, chairman library board; Milton Smith, city superintendent of schools.

Robert Long, city treasurer; Carleton Wyckoff, newspaper reporter; John Hall, detective sergeant; Tom Trawick, traffic sergeant; Frank Roscoe, patrolman; Cedric Baker, patrolman; Norman Wyckoff, patrolman; John Schrier, principal high school; Maurice Lyan, principal junior college; Harry Relistab, patrolman; Stanford King, newspaper reporter; and Box Luxembourg, editor of The Journal.

Each of the 27 participating nations also must pass legislation or promulgate decrees requiring its ships to comply with orders of the international naval patrol. Then, the committee hope, the flow of munitions and volunteers to Spain would be halted.

To spur the vigilance of the naval patrol, the committee assigned Italy and Germany to guard the coast of government territory and France and Great Britain to watch the Fascist shoreline.

Here Are Their "Beats"

The patrol beats were: Italy, from the French frontier to Cape Busto, west of Gijon; the southern coast from the Portuguese frontier to Cape de Gata, near Almeria.

France: the northwest coast from Cape Busto to the Portuguese border; the coast of Spanish Morocco, and the Balearic Islands of Majorca and Ibiza.

Germany: the Mediterranean coast from Cape de Gata to Cape Drosop, north of Valencia.

Italy: the Mediterranean coast from Cape Drosop to the French border, and the Balearic island of Minorca.

Name Control Ports

Committee regulations set up a system of control ports where shipping bound for Spain will be required to halt for inspection. Committee agents either will certify that no arms or volunteers are aboard or will accompany the vessels to Spain.

Ports designated by the committee were: Gibraltar, Lisbon, Oran, Algeria, Leverdon, Cetta,

MORE ABOUT NURSE FIGHT

gave the following statement to The Journal:

"Purchasing Agent Eugene Fendel, Hospital Superintendent Dr. Harry Zaiser and Supervisor Harry D. Riley met with the industrial accident commission in the state building at Los Angeles to report and discuss the condition of nurses stricken with poliomyelitis during the epidemic of 1934 and also to request permission for return to our hospital of the nurses now in other institutions, our reason for this request being that at least two-thirds of the cost can be reduced by treating the girls here at home where just as good if not better service can be rendered them.

"Our hospital is completely equipped in every way to treat these patients and the county built a new building especially for the comfort of these patients.

"Our orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Francis McKeever of Los Angeles, who is one of the most capable and outstanding orthopedic specialists in California, will be here regularly to treat them, accompanied by an expert polio physiotherapist.

To Hear Soon

"The Orange county men met with Commissioner Son and his aides, Cromwell, Gallagher and Parkins, who listened carefully to our report and also our request, and they said the matter would receive their consideration and that we would hear from the commissioner at the earliest convenient time in the near future. No definite time could be stated, however.

"The commissioner seemed well informed as to the condition of every one of our polio cases and commended Orange county on the interest taken in treatment of these unfortunate girls. They expected that the girls, as being glad to cooperate with us in any manner possible, reminding us, however, that their actions, just as ours, are clearly defined by law."

MORE ABOUT MISS BOOHER

county's board of supervisors to return outside polio patients to the Orange county hospital for treatment.

Miss Booher listed three things which impelled her answer, and refusal to return:

First, she claims hospital care here is inadequate; second that the hospital is incompletely equipped for orthopedic work and has an inadequate pool for exercising, and third that the environment of its polio ward is extremely bad for the polio sufferer.

She says, and her statement was borne out by Miss Nellie M. Porter, executive secretary of the State Nurses' association, that her condition has steadily improved since she was put under care of physicians at the Los Angeles Orthopedic hospital.

Miss Porter also corroborated Miss Booher's contention that the county hospital here is incapable of giving the specialized care offered at the hospital in Los Angeles.

Riley Is Right

"It would be much better," Miss Porter said, "for every one of these polio nurses to be located here, or at some hospital where they could be given the finest of care and medical attention."

Supervisor Harry D. Riley is correct when he says it would be much more expensive to treat Miss Booher, and others like her, at the county hospital. Under conditions as they are Miss Booher's cost is a little more than $200 a month, considerably lower, however, than many cases in Los Angeles.

Orange county compensation insurance pays for her rent, laundry, nurse, food, wheel chair, medicine and doctor's supervision, and must continue to do so as long as she is permitted to stay where she is, under treatment.

Here she would receive $37 a month compensation, and be housed and cared for at the county hospital.

Definite progress in commercial aviation was recorded in China during the last year, available statistics showing an increase of approximately 100 per cent in air passenger and mail traffic over the preceding year.

Cherbourg, Brest, Marseille, and Bordeaux, France; Palermo, Italy, and an anchorage off southeast England.

To guard against "incidents," the committee forbade patrol ships to search suspected vessels or to operate outside their specified zones.

To Report Violations

Violations of the neutrality rules will be reported to the government of the suspected violator, on the basis that the violator will be disobeying regulations of his own country cooperating in the international program.

The blockade plan, a compromise worked out after both the Spanish government and the insurgents refused to permit neutral foreign observers within their territory, had no parallel in international cooperation to halt a war, diplomats said.

Spurred to action after the Spanish war threatened to spread to other parts of Europe, the committee hoped both to keep the conflict within Spain's frontiers and to choke off foreign supplies and volunteers that might prolong the bitter warfare.

GIRL IS MADE ORPHAN BY ACCIDENT

Tomorrow Margaret Strong was to have celebrated her fifteenth birthday.

There will be no celebration for Margaret. She must make funeral arrangements for her father and mother, both of them burned to death with three other persons Thursday afternoon in an accident on the Santa Ana canyon road.

Then, after her father and mother have been buried, Margaret must leave Long Beach, where she has lived all of her life. She is going to live with her mother's sister, Mrs. Margaret Ellsworth of San Francisco. Her father's relatives live in Australia.

Inquest Monday

Funeral services for the five victims, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Strong of Long Beach, Glenn Rodgers of Fullerton, and Mr. and Mrs. George Adelsberger of Benwood, W. Va., will be arranged following an inquest at the Brown and Wagner funeral home in Santa Ana at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Rodgers, truck driver for the Val Vita Food Products company of Fullerton, and the four motorists were killed Thursday afternoon when the Strong car crashed into the truck, apparently bursting the gasoline tank of the truck and transforming the wreckage into a funeral pyre.

The Strong and Adelsbergers were returning from Palm Springs at the time of the crash. Mr. and Mrs. Adelsberger arrived in Long Beach Dec. 20. Adelsberger was a retired employee of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Strong was a veteran employee of the MacMillan Petroleum company in the Signal Hill field.

Other Survivors

Besides their daughter and Mrs. Ellsworth, the Long Beach couple is survived by Mrs. Strong's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woods of Redondo Beach. Other sisters are Mrs. Ada Hilling of Huntington Park and Mrs. Mary Bradford of South Pasadena.

Rodgers, 24-year-old Fullerton resident, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Blanche Rodgers of Buena Park, his father, W. Silas Rodgers of Duncan, Okla., and a sister, Mrs. Lily Fay Barnett of Long Beach. Funeral services will be conducted from the Backs, Terry and Campbell mortuary in Anaheim.

DROUGHT KILLS THOUSANDS

CHUNGKING, Szechuen Province, China. (AP)—An unprecedented drought, reducing two-thirds of the inhabitants of Szechuen province to the verge of starvation, has killed 3000 persons since Jan. 1, it was estimated today.

As in Honan province, where widespread death and suffering have been reported, thousands were believed to have died of hunger and cold in the last 60 days, despite the relief efforts of American and Canadian missionaries.

Parts of the afflicted areas have been without rain for seven months, reducing "China's garden of Eden" to hard, grassless clay. The mighty Yangtze, which usually roars through the famous scenic gorges, has dwindled to a mere trickle.

SEEKS ROAD TO COAST LOTS

Invoking the rule under which land used five years or more as a road becomes legally a public road, W. I. Cain today sought in superior court to establish right of way to his two lots at Three Arch bay.

Through Morris Cain, Santa Ana attorney, he brought suit for declaratory relief against Lewis H. Lasley and Bank of America, from whom he assertedly bought his property, and against Carrie Tierney Sinclair.

Three Hurt in Orange Accidents

Three persons were treated at the county hospital last night for minor injuries sustained in two collisions in Orange.

An automobile driven by Robert E. McNeill, 724 East Palmyra, collided with one driven by Milford Emmons, 22, of 340 South Chafer street, at the corner of Palmyra and Grand streets around 7:20 o'clock. Emmons and companion, Verne Hardy, 77, of 407 East Culver street, suffered minor cuts and bruises.

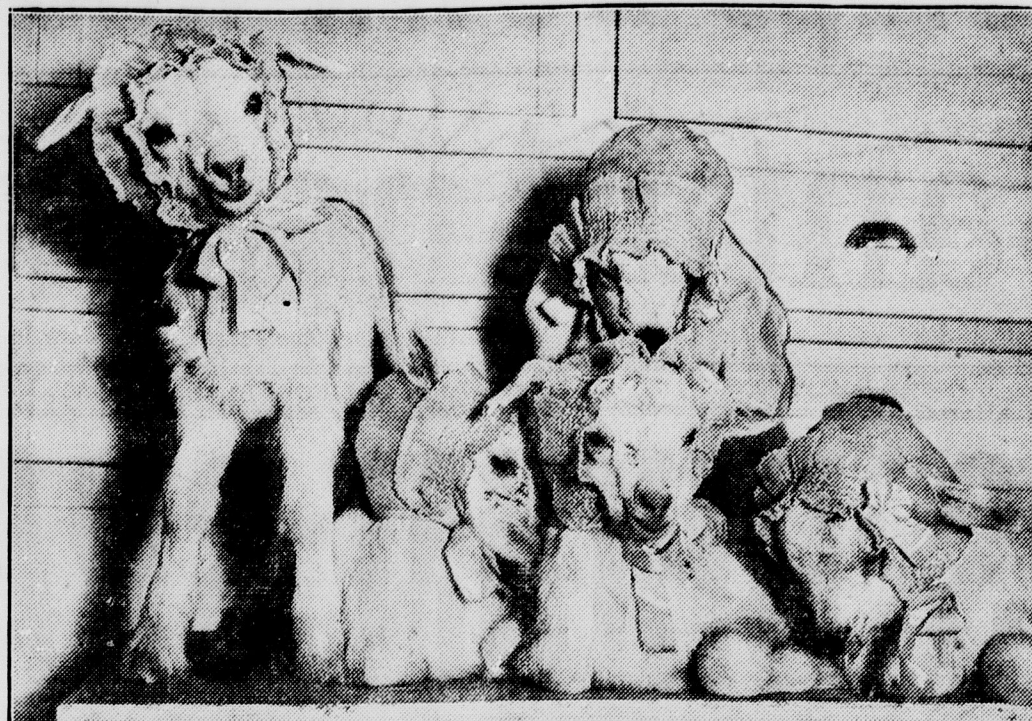

C. P. Cunningham, route 8, Midway City, was shaken up when his car rolled off the bank near the South Glassell street bridge around 8 o'clock and struck a fumigation office.

DISMISS HUGE SUIT

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny Friday dismissed the $550,000 damage suit of James A. (Foghorn) Murphy, wholesale liquor dealer, against members and officials of the state board of equalization. The judge took his action when no one appeared in court to answer a technical motion in the case.

Federal and state agricultural boards placed an inventory valuation of $181,421,000 on 1936 Kansas farm crops, highest in history.

Quintup let Kids Coy Before Camera

Only one of these quintuplet kids, born on a goat farm near Tucson, Ariz., would look the photographer in the eye when, at the age of two weeks and rigged up in baby bonnets, they had their first picture taken. Kids ordinarily come in pairs and multiple births of this size are reported rare. (Associated Press photo.)

SUNNY SKIES PREDICTED SUNDAY

Although further showers added to the season's high rainfall total last night, clearing skies should greet Sunday travelers, weather bureau experts predicted this afternoon. Unsettled tonight, with fair weather tomorrow was the forecast.

Strong gusts of wind and occasional heavy clouds brought an additional .67 inches to Santa Ana last night, making a total of .83 inches for the storm and boosting the season's total to 20.33 inches, as compared to 7.35 inches at this time last year.

In Fullerton exactly one inch fell last night, making a total of 1.35 inches for the storm. Orange recorded .89 for the past 24 hours, with a total of 1.19 for the two days and a season total of 24.61 inches against 9.32 inches last year. San Juan Capistrano received an additional .35 inches to boost the season total to 22.08 inches.

Water in Santiago dam was slowly creeping toward the top of the spillway this morning, being within three inches of the top at 10 o'clock. A total of 1.20 inches of rain fell for the storm there, making a total of 25.95 inches for the year.

AMELIA NAMES NAVIGATOR

OAKLAND. (AP)—The Oakland Tribune said today N. J. Noonan, former Pan-American Airways pilot would be Amelia Earhart's navigator on the Oakland-Hawaii-Howland island laps of her globe-girdling flight.

Noonan would leave the plane at Howland and return to Honolulu by the coast guard cutter Shoshone under the amended plan. The paper said Capt. Harry Manning would navigate from Howland to Darwin, Australia. From there Miss Earhart would continue her projected around the world flight alone.

Miss Earhart will have room for three persons in her plane because, she said, she expected to load gasoline with a 50 per cent safety margin, instead of carrying enough fuel for a 4000-mile cruising radius.

Baby Weighing 15½ Ounces Dies

NEW YORK. (AP)—A mite of life prematurely born to Mr. and Mrs. Max Post Thursday failed to overcome overwhelming odds, and died at 5:35 a. m. today in an incubator at a hospital.

Weighing only 15 pounds and so tiny she could be held in the palm of the hand, the girl was fed milk with a medicine dropper while four doctors worked to save her life.

Failure Caused DuVall Death

David W. DuVall, 45-year-old oil worker, was thrown to his death Thursday afternoon at Yorba Linda because of either human or mechanical failure.

A coroner's jury in Anaheim today found that DuVall, who was killed when an oil well engine kicked, was dead because of failure of the machinery or of carelessness on the part of workers at the well.

Lockheed Cuts Its Work Week

BURBANK. (AP)—The Lockheed Aircraft plant, where a newly organized machinists' union applied for an American Federation of Labor charter, shortened the work week from 48 to 40 hours today.

The company also announced the 1225 employees would be paid time and a half for all overtime instead of time and one-third.

ing, who joined him in the blast. But McKinney's law partner, L. A. West, introduced the motion that the bar association take action.

Resolution Text

By a vote of 12 to 11, which had to be counted three times to make certain, the association decided to eliminate partisan phrases from the resolution which had been suggested by the State Bar association. As adopted it read:

"Whereas, A proposal is before the congress of the United States to enact a law empowering the President to appoint an additional justice of the supreme court of the United States for every justice over the age of 70 years, which if now enacted into law would empower the President to appoint six additional justices; and

"Whereas, There is no necessary relation between the age of 70 years and the efficiency of an incumbent justice of the supreme court of the United States, as the history of that court shows; and

"Whereas, The work of the supreme court of the United States is up to date and the court has demonstrated that nine justices are adequate to maintain the efficiency of the court; and that there is no justification for increasing the number of the members of the court; and

"Whereas, The constitution of the United States provides as the fundamental feature of its plan of governmental organization for three separate co-ordinate departments, namely, the legislative, the executive, and the judicial; now therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Orange County Bar association is opposed to any legislation, the purpose of which is to increase the number of the justices of the supreme court of the United States as now constituted; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each senator of the State of California, and to the representative in congress from this district and to the board of governors of the state bar.

Committee Named

John A. Harvey and Charles D. Swanner were appointed to approach the board of supervisors with the plan for a public defender. The official would be an attorney paid a regular salary for defending accused persons who cannot hire their own attorneys. He also would act as a free legal clinic in simple cases, it was said.

While the majority of attorneys approved in principle the Farm bureau suggestion of two justice courts, several, led by Thomas McFadden, expressed the opinion a third should be placed on the coastline.

Others suggested a single court with several judges, one of whom would remain permanently in Santa Ana, with the others sitting in circuit fashion in the various communities.

INVENTOR DIES

WEST ARGUES TO GET OIL ROYALTY

Tells Legislature of the Demands by H. B. and Orange County

Ten per cent oil royalties to the county, Orange and an equal amount to the city of Huntington Beach is a fair and reasonable demand.

So argued Supervisor N. E. West, Laguna Beach, when he presented the claims to members of the state legislature, including the senate oil committee, at Sacramento. The supervisor returned yesterday afternoon from the capital, where he said he found support for his proposed amendment from Orange county legislators and others.

"Failure to provide such a royalty," West said, "can be explained only on the ground that it was an unintentional oversight or a failure to understand the consequences to the county and city that would result from development of this oil field." The supervisor called attention to three facts which he said furnished sufficient basis for participation in the royalties by the city and county.

"Should this oil be developed on a basis of honest competition," he said, "bidding would in all likelihood be not less than 40 per cent. The bills now drawn would not permit the county or city to tax this royalty, leaving only 60 per cent of the total production which would be taxable. The production from the oil field would now produce from this field is being taxed by the county and city to the extent of approximately 50 per cent of production, the state royalty now being received amounting to 10 per cent. Therefore, production as proposed by these bills would deprive the county and city of one-third the rate of taxes which they are now receiving from tideland production—only 60 per cent of total production being taxable as compared with 90 per cent of the present tideland production. Thus the city and county would be deprived of a large revenue to which they are entitled and which is essential for carrying the cost of city and county governments."

West claimed the fact that one or two other tideland producing areas are giving no royalties to the counties and cities cannot be properly used as an argument against his proposal to share royalties from this field. He said the production in tideland fields of other counties is showing the state only about 5 per cent royalty, whereas the royalty in the Huntington Beach field would be seven or eight times as much. Development of the other fields is not injuring to any appreciable extent the adjacent county or city property, whereas the development of the Huntington Beach field as proposed will further depreciate the land values of the local beach city and along the entire county coast line, West said.

"The very fact that this tideland area would be completely developed would create apprehension of beach spoilation affecting property values along the entire county coast line, even though such apprehension might be without warrant."

Population Trend

"That the proposed development of the littoral and tideland property of Huntington Beach would further depreciate values is indicated by the fact that the population of the city itself has been reduced by almost half since the development of this oil field. Values outside the actual producing areas have depreciated accordingly. Therefore it is obvious the development as proposed will definitely reduce the taxable land values for both the county of Orange and city of Huntington Beach, without any directly compensating advantages, except as the county and city share in the royalties."

West also cited the fact that the county and city have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in constructing and maintaining roads, bridges and culverts and in furnishing fire, police and health protection to the district.

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

(Opinions and comment expressed in this column are not necessarily those of The Journal.—Editor's note.)

Again Dr. Francis E. Townsend crashes the headlines of practically every newspaper of the nation. This time as having been convicted and sentenced for having shown contempt for the Townsend investigation congressional committee. The sentence was 30 days in jail and a fine of $100. When the sentence was pronounced according to the Associated Press, the doctor said, "Thank you, sir."

And that statement was characteristic of the Townsend leader, who is always kindly and courteous.

Later when Dr. Townsend issued a statement to the press in defense of the Townsend plan he made an epigrammatic statement that will ring down through the ages in connection with his name and the history of the evolution of social security. It was: "Try as they can to imprison me, they can't imprison that idea."

But the story was not all told when the sentence was pronounced. Elisha Hansen, the doctor's attorney, announced that the case would be appealed. Dr. Townsend's bond of $1000 was continued by Judge Peyton Gordon, pending the appeal.

In his statement to the Associated Press, the doctor is quoted as having said, "I stand convicted before a United States district court of violating an act of congress in failing to appear before a committee before which I did appear. However, I feel certain that before the bar of public opinion I am guiltless of any wrong doing. I would do the same thing again tomorrow should the occasion arise, under similar circumstances."

He added, "The tide is definitely turning and my crackpot idea is becoming the idea which will save America from economic serfdom and will bring happiness and prosperity to our people."

If the sought for appeal is denied the doctor he will doubtless go to jail and such will only cause more and more people to give thought concerning the Townsend plan. When men evidence the courage to suffer for the welfare of an idea it gives added proof of the sincerity and worthiness of purposes which actuates them. Dr. Townsend is furnishing proof of that just now. When men become martyrs for a cause, it always gives their cause its worth. The writer believes Dr. Townsend is right when he says that "the tide is definitely turning" in favor of the Townsend plan idea.

EL DON GIVEN NEW HONOR

El Don, Santa Ana Junior college newspaper, today had new honors heaped on its journalistic head.

Already named second-place newspaper in the national Columbia Scholastic Press association competition in New York City this week, El Don today has been named to a mythical "all-Columbian" composite paper, for typographical and editorial excellence.

Nine hundred and fifty-nine newspapers and magazines, representing secondary and elementary schools in 47 states, were entered in the competition. Los Angeles junior college won first place in its division, with the Santa Ana paper second.

Brakes Grab—and Car Turns Over

When his brakes grabbed and his car skidded on wet pavement and overturned as he crossed the Classell street bridge last night, Frank Cunningham, 22, route 3, Santa Ana, incurred cuts and bruises about the scalp and was given first aid at the county hospital.

Verna Hardy, 17, and Milford Emmons, 22, both of Orange, were taken to the hospital last night after another accident in Orange. Miss Hardy incurred bad lacerations about the face and head, and Emmons was cut about the face.

SLAPPING YARN HELD UNTRUE

Someone may have got slapped; someone may not have got slapped. But Mrs. Mary M. Pleis, supervisor of a WPA sewing unit here, had a statement to make to The Journal today which would indicate that some member of the unit got slapped.

Here is Mrs. Pleis' statement: "Rumor has it that a slapping affair took place last Thursday at the sewing unit in the Fuller building. 'She who got slapped' in the face could not be found. Neither were there any witnesses. The workers in the unit enjoyed a hearty laugh. But the rumor kept on spreading outside the unit. 'In justice to every one concerned I feel obliged to explain the motive for this unjust publicity. The workers in the Fuller building sewing unit are transferred to the sewing unit in the Fuller building, and will take up their work Tuesday."

"In order to induce the authorities to continue the Fuller building sewing unit, it is necessary to send in a petition. The old and rather effective way to get signatures on a petition is to frighten the people. Fill them with fear. Fear of being slapped by the ferocious supervisor in the Fuller building sewing unit. It is the fourth sewing unit in Orange county that I have worked in, and I cannot decide which of the four I prefer."

"Contentment everywhere. Harmony and helpfulness between the workers. Everyone doing their best each day and better the next day. It is to be regretted that anyone must go to such an extreme to tell a falsehood, casting a shadow on the unsuspecting in order to gain her desire. However, when the lie had gained considerable momentum it was considered wise to cut it down a little. The woman was slapped on the face. It is still a lie."

EROSION TOUR DRAWS 18

A group of 18 took part in the agricultural extension service soil erosion tour yesterday afternoon, in spite of the rain which prevented the party from visiting some points on the schedule.

Charles Wilson, of the Soil Erosion service, and Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory were in charge of the party. Wilson extended an invitation to any persons in the county interested in soil erosion, who have individual erosion problems, to contact him at his office before Friday afternoon to arrange for tours.

Yesterday afternoon the party went to Lemon Heights, where inspection was made of the furrows placed on a grade in orchards to eliminate washing which otherwise would take place. Pipe lines are constructed at the ends of the furrows, serving irrigation purposes in the summer time and as outlets for run-off in the winter. Dams are placed in the furrows every four or five feet to check the water.

In the El Toro district the group saw the broad base terraces used on contours and on a small grade to prevent sheet erosion in heavy rainfall periods.

TUSTIN. WHITTIER IN CAGE FINALS TONIGHT

Column Left

Basketball battle lines will be drawn in the Whittier college gymnasium at 8 o'clock tonight, and when the smoke lifts there should be no cause for sorrow at Tustin High school.

Even if they should lose the Southern California championship to Whittier's Cards of the Foothill league, the Tilters can point with pride to their remarkable feat in ousting San Diego, 34-30, in the semi-finals last night.

Ladies will be admitted free to the O. C. A. C's wrestling program Monday night in Promoter Sam Sampson's effort to revive mat interest among the feminine fans.

The card is an attractive one: Hans Steinke, German giant, vs. Pete Mehninger, flying tackle expert; Rudy Strongberg vs. Abe Yurish; Myron Cox, protégé of Nick Lutz, vs. the Red Devil, an unknown grappler, and Young Stecher, Orange county product, vs. Wildman Zim, the South American.

Heavyset Nan Cools, left-handed first-baseman of Santa Ana Stars, is recuperating from an appendicitis operation, performed in Whittier this week.

Stars Secure Ray Hodgson to Aid Coates

Seven Already Signed by Manager Smith; Drill Slated Monday Nite

Ray Hodgson, the Garden Grove right-hander who teamed with Ira DeBusk to pitch Irvine to the County Nightball league championship last summer, was under contract today to the Santa Ana Stars of the National League.

Hodgson has been signed by Manager Ray (Doc) Smith to understudy Jim Coates, the "stuff" pitcher who long has been in need of a mound partner.

The Irvine star is the third new face to be added to the Santa Ana roster. Charley Comstock, hard-hitting shortstop, already has been secured from Anaheim in a trade for Pitcher Lyle Morse, and Herb Bowe, the Elks' touted catcher, has been signed from the Santa Ana City league.

Coates, Catcher Bomo Koral, Second-Baseman George Freble and Manager Smith are the veterans with '37 contracts.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Heinie Manush's clouting is giving Brooklyn Dodgers visions of a lot of punch this season. The big flycatcher, making his debut in the National league, has been belting all brands of pitching in intrasquad exhibitions.

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—The regular outfield trio of the Philadelphia Athletics now is intact. Wally Moses and Manager Mack reached a salary agreement and Wally will join Bob Johnson and Lou Finney, his flycatching mate, Tuesday.

NEW APARTMENTS RAISE LAGUNA BUILDING TOTAL TO $186,960

RECORD SEEN FOR MONTH OF MARCH

$69,050 Mark is Set for First Two Weeks; More Activity Is Planned

LAGUNA BEACH.—Disclosure of plans for two new apartment houses promises for a record-breaking month in building construction and adds two needed improvements in the apartment-house line.

For Lester McKnight a two-story, eight-family apartment house is to be built on Cliff drive, and will be built by the Smith Construction company.

The building will be of wood-frame and stucco construction, with a shingle roof, with plans being incorporated to allow further expansion in the future. The apartments will face upon a patio, affording a liberal amount of sunshine to each apartment.

The other new building will be a seven-apartment structure on Cliff drive for George G. Chalmers of Seattle and Huntington Beach. Plans for the new addition have not yet been announced as the property sale has just been completed. Ropp and Mackey handled the deal which brought E. S. Baker of Santa Ana and Laguna $7500 for the property.

Laguna's building total jumped to a new record high with completion of the first two weeks of March. Building Inspector Floyd I. Case announced this morning that $69,050 in permits were issued since March 1, raising the year's total to $186,960.

CHURCH GROUPS JOIN AT G. G.

GARDEN GROVE.—The Home and Foreign Missionary societies joined for an all-day meeting at the First Methodist church Thursday, holding individual business meetings during the morning with Miss Mettie Chaffee presiding for the foreign and Mrs. A. A. Schmitt for the home societies.

Gunneth, the president and Christian citizenship chairman of the home society for the San Diego district, were guests.

In charge of the afternoon program, the foreign society presented Mrs. Merritt White of Santa Ana in a review of "Race Relations as it Applies to Africa." Mrs. O. O. Bragg conducted the devotional hour. Mrs. Edward Chaffee, Mrs. W. M. Adland and Miss Chaffee were hostesses for the luncheon.

Later in the evening a mass meeting for adults will be held in the same place. This meeting is under the auspices of the Orange County Presbyterian Social union, of which the Rev. M. L. Pearson, Orange, is president.

MAN of the WEEK

Step right up and meet Orange county's Man of the Week. He's been selected to appear here because of his interest in his community and because friends claim he's a real fellow. Here he is!

Here we have Marcus Marcellus McCallen, who spends most of his time boosting Huntington Beach and what's left running his oil refinery and other business interests. McCallen jumped into prominence of a community booster a month or so ago when he was elected president of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce. He started residents of his community immediately afterward by urging a home building campaign. And then he started them further by starting the campaign himself, with construction of a $20,000 residence.

He's president of the M. M. McCallen Refining company and has large business interests both in the oil fields and the Huntington Beach business district. He's married, and has three children.

McCallen has been an active civic worker ever since he came to the city about 10 years ago, but jumped into prominence when honored by the entire chamber of commerce membership at a "Victory banquet" two weeks ago.

ALONG ORANGE COUNTY'S WATER FRONT

WELL, yachtsmen and fishermen, it looks like a disturbing week-end, as far as our own special weather is concerned. Steve Smith, tugboat admiral from Balboa, says that a couple of storms coiled at sea Friday afternoon, and should arrive together about Sunday morning.

Steve, however, isn't such a hot weather prophet, and it just might be clear after all. Worth waiting for, anyway!

High tides tomorrow at 10:05 a. m. and 10:09 p. m.—two nice high ones, if anyone wants to try after some surf fish, which the Lynd Scotsman claims are running after a fashion. Low tides at 3:58 a. m. and 3:57 p. m., which doesn't make much difference, anyway.

Since we mentioned surf fishing, we'd better investigate the angling situation. This Lynd Scotsman guy, who in real life is Hugh McMillan of the tackle store McMillans, says that an occasional corbina, quite some yellowfin and numerous surf perch are being captured on sand crabs, of which the bait men are catching quite a number now, if you see what we mean.

In deeper water, it's still halibut and sea bass, with a school of bonita assertedly skipping about and making things interesting for the trolling boat boys. Looks fine, doesn't it?

One of the newest boat owners is David L. Stoddard, San Clemente head of the Capitol company, who long has wanted to own a boat, and has finally reached his goal.

Stoddard quit selling lots and houses long enough to pick up "Jeanne," 24-foot cruiser, and brought his purchase to the Bay Shore camp, where she's now moored.

Dollars to nickels he'll be buying a 40-footer next year!

Somewhere else in this department we're mentioning the boat show, and if you don't like boat shows stay away, but if there's any sort of salt water fever in your blood, the huge exhibit opened yesterday in the Pan-Pacific auditorium, out on Wilshire in L. A.

She runs for a week, and if you feel like becoming dissatisfied with the old boat, pop on out. The very latest will be on display!

Lightning or something struck the Chris Craft sales shop over on the highway this week. Everything was turned inside out, according to report, and out popped William Lester as salesmanager with his first sale chalked up before even official word was received of his appointment.

Lester admits the sale, a 22-foot deluxe runabout to Mary K. Thompson of Coronado, but balked at discussing the rumored new deal concluded behind the biggest expanse of plate glass in the harbor district.

Confirmation of that, he said, must come from H. O. McKinley company, at Wilmington, Southern California, distributors for Chris Craft. In other words, whether the plant still was owned by Ben Sprague was a matter left in doubt.

However, Lester readily gave a big boost to H. P. Howard, new service manager. Howard, he said, has been a Chris Craft man for 16 years and will be right there to give his best to Chris Craft owners on Newport bay.

Lester identified himself as "only a salesman!"

Balboa Island knows him as a resident there for the last year.

Through all the last minute excitement in getting the new harbormaster's office ready for its formal opening today, Mrs. Helen Cabanne, Tom Bouchey's secretary, went right on working in the old building, registering changes of boats, owners, moorings and all the rest of the routine. Was that stamina! It was the fire department, by the way, that contributed a lot of tricks to the ingenious wind and weather recording devices rigged up in the new official residence of the harbormaster.

Movie business on Newport bay is not what it used to be according to some of those who usually profit when Hollywood comes down here on location. Thousands of dollars used to be spent where now the spending is below the hundreds, they say.

Picture companies, on the other hand, have said the bay is getting to be too built up for their purposes, that too much was going on here.

To show them that a few choice spots still are open and quiet for camera shots, Steve Smith and Kent Hitchcock, master marine photographer, have been named by the chamber of commerce directors to prepare reference albums for Hollywood production managers' desks.

That "quickie" company working here last week-end got one shot it was not looking for. Thriftily it had chosen Bob's Boat shop as location because the script hero's name was Bob. Saved painting a sign.

But when a lucid blonde spoke her lines: "Come here, Bob dear," it was not the smooth-faced juvenile that popped into view first, but Bob Zunft himself with a week's growth of beard. Was that a shock to the camera and the sheet-sheet!

All's quiet on the bottom of the bay this week. Norris Gardner, deepsea diver, has finished ditching the new telephone cable across the channel, but will return to do a bit more of the same thing when the Balboa Island bulkhead is finished.

Capt. William J. Brown has returned from his fishing trip in southern waters, and virtually disrupted the meeting of the Newport Harbor chamber of commerce directors with his tales of big fish and bonza weather. That's Aussie for pretty swell.

Thomas R. Dempsey, owner of Samona I, has had Ted Geary

ORANGE DOG QUARANTINE ANNOUNCED

ORANGE.—A rabies quarantine area was imposed on a part of the city yesterday following discovery that the pet dog of Mrs. Charles Cook, 1112 West Almond avenue, which bit his mistress on the foot Sunday, was rabid.

The area under quarantine is bounded on the East by the Santa Fe railroad on the West by Main street, Chapman avenue on the North, and La Veta avenue on the South. All dog owners in the area were notified late yesterday by Police Chief George Franzen to pen up their dogs for a period of 90 days. The dogs must either be put in a pen or chained. The area will be checked daily by police if dispersed at once. The dog, Edward Shick, 469 South Center street was bitten early yesterday by a dog belonging to Otto Puchert, East Walnut avenue. The skin was not broken but the dog has been penned for observation.

ORANGE CENTER HAS PROGRAM

VILLA PARK.—Anaheim Farm Center members furnished the program when the Foothill Farm Center met here Thursday evening in the Villa Park social hall. Appearing in the program in music and readings were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Harpster, B. L. Chandler, George Lyon, Ruth Bonney, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Del Fraker, Bob Mapp, L. P. Halderman, Anaheim; Mrs. Rose Standish, Orange, and Miss Loretta Phillips, Santa Ana, accompanist. Thomas Hight was program chairman.

E. E. Campbell told of the economic conference held recently at Tustin, adding that the water situation in the county is very grave, and recommending that some sort of program be pushed by the Farm Bureau. Holmes Bishop reported on the labor situation and outlined the part communism has played in the labor troubles of the county. Ralph Hull gave the directors' report, and Roy Crane reported on 4-H club work.

Beach P-T. A. to Meet Monday

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The monthly meeting of the high school P. T. A. will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the cafeteria of the school.

Calvin Flint, dean of Santa Ana Junior college, told of his experience, telling of some of his experiences in the Near East, where he spent considerable time.

draw him plans for a new power tender. Mark Johnson has the building job. He has been laying out full size details this week on the floor of his shop.

"Boat of the week" honors this time should go to C. H. Van Marter, formerly of Long Beach, who last week moved his 38-foot "Felicis Dias" to Heinz Kaiser's Bay Shore Yacht landing.

Van Marter is rather proud of his boat, which has been styled as the largest 38-footer anywhere around, and she is, too. A sport-fisher, there's enough room in the cockpit to stage a well-attended ballroom dance.

Comfortable bunks can sleep from four to eight persons—according to how well they know each other. Very nice galley, with modern gas (flame) stove, sink, in everything else needed in the kitchen.

Two-engined with two Budas, the craft has a long cruising range, and Van Marter uses her for charter parties and commercial fishing in the summer, in spite of the fact that she's really

DE MOLAYS TO RULE CITY AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—DeMolay members will take charge of municipal affairs here next Wednesday when they rule the city for the day. Jeff Watts has been selected to act as mayor.

Councilmen to serve with him are Lloyd Bledsoe, Arl McCormick, Jack Munn and Kenneth Baker. Department heads include Phillip Baker, judge; Robert Olsen, chief of police; Clifford Overacker, fire chief; Roy Watts, city engineer; Norman Toussaint, city clerk; James Griffith, city attorney and Russell Olsen, treasurer.

Lemuel McDaniel will be street superintendent; Robert Grove, chamber of commerce representative; William Rose, desk sergeant and Kenneth McDaniel, deputy sheriff. A council meeting will be conducted in regular style during the forenoon, followed by a kangaroo court.

In the evening the DeMolay will hold a card party to which the public has been invited. There will be tables for contract bridge, auction bridge and 500, with attractive awards offered.

Standard Women Plan Meeting

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Women of the Standard Oil company will hold their next meeting at the Standard recreation hall Friday, March 19. A dessert luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock followed by an afternoon of card games.

Mrs. B. W. Harding is chairman of the committee on arrangements. She will be assisted by Mrs. Zetta Troop and Mrs. B. M. Honold.

Silverado P-T. A. Has Election

SILVERADO.—Silverado P-T. A. members elected officers this week when they met in the school Wednesday afternoon and chose Mrs. C. B. Redman as president; Mrs. M. E. Armstrong, vice president; Mrs. W. C. Howell, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. J. V. Schulz, historian. Mrs. Schulz is outgoing president.

Installation will be held April 1 at the Silverado school.

a yacht. Right now he's painting everything from waterline up. Slight changes in the cockpit now give him a large fish storage space, which transforms to comfortable seats for anglers.

He has a boat, and he's proud of her!

Harbormaster Tommy Bouchey is still upset after that fire which nearly destroyed his prized speedboat.

Painters, he thinks, flipped a cigarette onto the canvas covering of the craft. Before anyone could act, paint and upholstery had been thoroughly scorched near the stern. Which made the brand new blue-grey paint job look worse!

Newport bay boat shows will be represented at the Los Angeles boat show opening next week. Walton Hubbard has exhibits lined up of South Coast work and craft for which the plant has the agency. Mark Johnson expects to show his Johnson-Taylor tram, a yacht tender no bigger than a washtub that holds best part of a full ship's company without dipping its rails.

Roy Lyon will be there shouting about Hunter cruisers, and "Don't be fooled by the local Chris Craft shop will have its name up in lights.

Others, too, have plans, but have not announced them.

Some say Newport bay's commercial fishermen have lined up with San Diego local. Others insist that nothing has been done toward completion of their organization. Still others are complaining to the police that they have been threatened by outside organizers, their boats might be sunk or something, if they don't join up.

"What the answer may be is a question, but one thing is sure, most of the boats are getting ready to go south and let the union business go until winter comes again, when there's nothing better to do.

Goff Island 'Goes Native' as Movies Move In

LAGUNA BEACH.—Goff island made another change this week in its colorful and varied career with motion picture technicians transforming it into Devil's Island for a new picture on the life of Emilio Zola.

Palm trees sprang up over night and the tricolor of France looks out over Warner Brothers interpretation of the famous French Guiana penal colony where Captain Dreyfuss was incarcerated.

Paul Muni plays the part of Zola, and Joseph Schildkraut is cast as Dreyfuss. William Dieterle, director and Tony Gaudio, cameraman were both winners of the Academy award this year. Al Albion, who recently completed a home in Laguna, is production manager of the company.

"I? He burst into a roar of laughter. "Darling, you are grand!"

Fran smiled in spite of herself. He was so gay now that it was hard to be serious herself.

"All right, but what about this queer job Frau Braun was telling me about? You said that was simple to explain."

Harbormaster Tommy Bouchey, on the lower deck, and First Chief Frank Crocker, above, enjoying fresh air found on the higher altitudes of the new harbor office at Newport-Balboa, which is being dedicated today. Many state, federal and county officials have been invited to attend the housewarming of the new structure.

THE PURPLE ARROW

By MILDRED SNOW GLEASON

(Copyright, 1937, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Professor Richardson was coming out of the woods. There was a little twig caught in his hair, and his face was dirty.

"Good morning," he said, in his precise voice.

"Doing a little exploring?" Ward asked.

"Yes, but I find I'm getting too old for that sort of thing."

"Too old to swing a heavy mallet?"

"Afrail so, but I might manage a crowbar nicely."

Fran looked from Ward to the professor and back again. The men seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves.

"I see," said Ward. "Did you leave the crowbar back there in the woods?"

"Yes—it's half buried in the pine needles."

"Well, professor, it takes more than a crowbar to do me in."

"I dare say it does. I'll remember that next time."

The professor bowed and walked off. The twig was still in his hair, and it made him look funny. Ward laughed.

"What was that all about?" demanded Fran.

"A crowbar was used to hit me with, and it's still in there."

"How does he dare admit it to you?" Fran whispered. "It—it's horrible!"

"Oh, well," said Ward, "the professor didn't do the actual hitting. That must have been Jillup."

"But you said you believed Popespu's story."

"Yes," Ward nodded. "But I think the professor meant that he was responsible for the attack, not that he executed it."

"Well, I'm going to my room to wash up for lunch."

Ward went with her as far as the stairs.

"Don't be long," he said.

However, when she came down again, 20 minutes later, he was nowhere to be seen.

As she started for the dining room, a maid handed her a note.

It was written on a sheet evidently torn from a little memorandum book, and read:

Have been called unexpectedly to Bucharest. Be a good girl and stay where you are. I love you.

WARD.

ERROL FLYNN STAR OF 'GREEN LIGHT,' DUE AT BROADWAY SUNDAY

STORY BASED ON DOUGLAS' NOTED BOOK

Anita Louise, Margaret Lindsay Have Leading Roles in Picture

"Green Light," best selling novel for two years, and now translated to the screen, opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow on a double feature program that has the comedy mystery, "Murder Goes to College," sharing honors.

Errol Flynn, the young Irish star who made such a sensational success of his first two films, "Captain Blood" and "Charge of the Light Brigade," has the role of Dr. Newell Paige, a young surgeon who sacrifices his career to save that of an older doctor.

Co-starred with him is Anita Louise as Phyllis Dexter, for whose mother's death Paige has assumed the blame. The two meet at the home of Francis O'Givie, played by Margaret Lindsay, a nurse who devotes her life to Paige, and fall in love. But when Phyllis finds out who he is she refuses to see him again.

Sir Harcourt, as played by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, is a cleric with a beautiful philosophy of life, and the confidante of these three people. Through him Phyllis is made to realize that Paige is innocent and she finally goes to him in the Rocky Mountains, where he is risking his life in search of a vaccine that will control spotted fever. Arriving, she finds him desperately ill, having injected himself with the deadly virus. He recovers, however, and with his recovery makes a valuable contribution to science. Meanwhile the older doctor clears Paige's name.

Gangland hobnobbs with gray-bearded professors, and the policy racket goes in for mathematics in "Murder Goes to College," a breezy mystery story which stars two outstanding comedians, Lynne Overman and Roscoe Karns. Overman is the detective who solves the mystery and Karns is the crackpot reporter who is supposed to help, but more often hinders him. Marsha Hunt, Larry Crabbe, Astrid Allwyn and Harvey Stephens have prominent roles.

A Popeye cartoon and the latest Movietone Newsreel will also be seen on the new program.

ARNOLD'S FILM ENDING RUN

A captivating story of love that turned to hate and then to love again brings Edward Arnold to the screen as an industrial Croesus who thought he could buy a woman's heart with gold, in "John Meade's Woman," which closes at the Broadway tonight on a twin feature program.

Arnold, rich and ruthless, is engaged to Gail Patrick who is intended to marry him for his money. She is really in love with Sidney Blackmer, a playboy of her own class. Arnold accidentally meets Francine Larrimore, a county girl trying to make a go of it in the city. When he discovers the affair between his fiancée and rival he marries Miss Larrimore merely to humble the highborn beauty. When the time comes to tell his bride the reason he married her, she runs off to the farm land from which she came, spurning Arnold's gifts and proffers of aid.

Later when she saves his life from an infuriated mob of farmers, whose drought-stricken land he owns, she realizes that she cannot hate him, and he realizes there is money in the world to whom his money and power mean nothing.

Heading the cast of supporting players are George Bancroft, John Trent, Orange county's contribution to the film ranks; Aileen Pringle and Blackmore.

The second feature, "The Crime Nobody Saw," is one of those "whodunit" mystery dramas, with a generous seasoning of laughs and amusing situations to relieve the suspenseful situations. Lew Ayres, Benny Baker, Eugene Pallette and Vivienne Osborne are assigned the stellar roles.

ATTACK CHARGE HITS SAILORS

Three sailors from San Pedro, who assertedly attacked a Long Beach housemaid near Anaheim three weeks ago, heard formal charges of morals offenses and assault placed against them in superior court yesterday afternoon.

They are expected to enter their pleas March 19.

The girl, Miss Frances Roosevelt, charged that the three sailors forced her from their auto after a trip to San Bernardino and forced her to submit to their attentions.

Accused of the attack are Sam J. Leggio, 20; John W. Waller, 26; and H. J. Reynolds, 23. All are from the U. S. S. Chicago.

Ralph Barnhart and Charles Crook, Kansas state college students, have developed a wilt-resistant, early maturing tomato

Three Stars in 'Green Light'

Anita Louise, Errol Flynn and Margaret Lindsay, shown above, head a stellar cast in Lloyd C. Douglas' best seller, "Green Light," coming to the Broadway tomorrow, with "Murder Goes to College," featuring Roscoe Karns, Lynne Overman and Marsh Hunt, as the second half of the bill.

Above are pictured Clark Gable and Joan Crawford in "Love on the Run," which opens Sunday at Walker's theater, together with "The Mighty Treve."

'SWING HIGH, SWING LOW' AT WEST COAST WEDNESDAY

"Swing High, Swing Low" comes to the West Coast Wednesday, starring Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard, and uncovers a series of surprises. Miss Lombard uncovers the fact that she can both sing and dance, while MacMurray puts over as mean a trumpet number as anyone ever heard.

"Swing High, Swing Low," is both a brilliant love story, highlighted by good music, singing and rich comedy.

Carole Lombard, traveling West to become married, is working her way aboard ship as a beauty parlor operator. Going ashore she meets MacMurray and Charlie Butterworth, incidentally missing her boat. MacMurray, a mediocre trumpet player, marries Carole and develops into a sensation which eventually leads to a call to New York, where he meets Dorothy Lamour who proceeds to upset his plans about bringing his wife from Panama. Success goes to his head, Miss Lombard leaving him. Without her he is lost, and he finds himself again back where he started but without the desire or incentive to rebuild. But a happy ending comes through a surprise climax.

The glamour of the tropics with its catchy music, the gay night club life of the Great White Way, the humorous situations which the dumb, but well meaning Butterworth develops, all combine to round out one of the most enjoyable and entertaining productions of the season.

CLARK, JOAN IN FILM AT WALKER'S

Against an international background of intrigue, with Scotland Yard detectives close on their heels in a mad dash across Europe, Joan Crawford and Clark Gable appear in their new picture, "Love on the Run," which opens Sunday at Walker's theater.

Gable portrays a newspaperman, and Miss Crawford an American heiress who runs away from the altar and a pompous nobleman, into the arms of Gable. In the course of their adventures, Gable uncovers a spy ring, and finally wins the heart of the heiress.

Prominent in supporting roles are Franchot Tone, Reginald Owen, Mona Barrie, Ivan Lebedeff, Charles Judels and William Demarest.

The companion feature on the double bill is "The Mighty Treve," with Noah Beery, Jr., in the leading role.

This is a thrilling story by Albert Payson Terhune, in which a youth sets out with his dog to make a way in the world. He meets a girl whose uncle has a great fear of dogs, but when the dog saves the man's life he loses his fear, becomes the youth's friend, and aids the romance between his niece and the youth.

With young Beery in the cast are Barbara Read, Alma Kruger, Samuel S. Hinds, Hobart Cavanaugh, "Tuffy," the dog; Edmund Cobb, Guy Usher, Julian Rivero and Erville Alderson.

'ESPIONAGE' TO OPEN SOON

"Espionage," a story with the flavor of today's headlines, with Edmund Lowe and Madge Evans in the leading roles, has been booked to open at the Broadway theater Thursday on a program that also has "The Man Who Found Himself," starring John Beal, and an Our Gang Comedy, "Glove Taps."

"Espionage" is a narrative that describes the studied movements of a millionaire munitions maker who suddenly vanishes. A reporter is assigned by an American newspaper to trace him, and an opposition newspaper gives the same job to a girl reporter. These two meet on a speeding express out of Paris, neither aware that the other is a competing news gatherer. The situation becomes more complicated and equally more amusing when they fall in love. In the meanwhile they encounter thrilling adventures and face danger together a dozen times before they eventually get their story.

The cast includes Paul Lukas, Ketti Gallian, Skeets Gallagher, Frank Reicher, William Gilbert, Robert Graves, Mitchell Lewis and Barnett Parker.

'Outcast' Soon Will Show Here At West Coast

The effort to keep pace with the present day trend toward entertaining and realistic portrayals of sociological problems on the screen has Hollywood in a constant battle to nab stories that really reflect current crises. Latest screen drama to discuss such mob movements as lynching, that problem peculiar to America, is "Outcast," booked for early showing at the West Coast theater.

Based on Frank R. Adams' novel and magazine serial, "Happening Preferred," the drama deals with the effects of small town gossip, rumor and under-currents of hatred and distrust that have often led in real life to outbursts of violence in more remote sections of the country.

This story deals with the career of a physician accused of responsibility for the death of his best friend's young and attractive wife. Warren William plays the part of the physician. Sister of William's friend and benefactor is Karen Morley. Dissatisfied with the acquittal verdict rendered by the jury, Miss Morley determines to wreck William's career, and the story hinges on this vengeance motive. The cast includes Lewis Stone, Jackie Moran, John Wray and Jonathan Hale.

Marx Bros. Take Over Santa Anita to Film New Picture

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Santa Anita's $2,000,000 race track isn't quite the same today. There's nothing permanently wrong about the place, the Marx brothers have merely been using it to make a picture.

Several hundred extras took the place of thousands of turf fans, bulky camera trucks replaced prancing thoroughbreds and excitement was in the air. So was Director Sam Wood, who has to work with the Brothers Marx.

Where a week or more ago raced the Rosemonds, the Seabiscuits and Indian Brooms, today it's a race between the Marx brothers and applied lunacy, but all bets are off. The odds on the Marxes are too short.

Groucho was found, lying flat on a cot near the finish line. "A typical pose for me," said Groucho, gravely, "after a day at the races." He smiled and dozed back to sleep.

Ten minutes passed and Chico was discovered far back in a stable. He was teaching a horse to wag one ear at a time. Chico could do it but the horse couldn't seem to catch on.

Patently, the director switched the shooting schedule to make a scene with Harpo. Harpo was caught unawares before could escape.

The script called for him among other things, to trim a hedge bordering the paddock.

His red wig bobbing up and down, he grabbed a huge pair of clippers and dug into the evenly trimmed hedge. Great chunks of leaves and branches came out. Where once had been neat handiwork was unholy ruin.

A gentleman standing off to one side grew pale. He was Hugh Blue, secretary of the Los Angeles Turf club, which spent $100,000 developing the track's hedge and flower display.

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Paul Jaeck, head waiter at a fashionable Washington hotel, won a $200 verdict for a black eye given him by Harry K. Thaw, socialite who figured in the famous Stanford White murder case 30 years ago.

A federal district court jury found Jaeck was entitled to $200 damages for the pain and embarrassment of the blow and added $3000 punitive damages as a rebuke for Thaw's conduct. Jaeck asked $10,000.

M'LAGLEN IN TWO DRAMAS ON SCREEN AT STATE

Reminiscent of the famous Thanksgiving Day prison break at Folsom in 1927 is the riot scene filmed for the gripping dramatic hit, "Nancy Steele Is Missing," now showing at the West Coast theater. Victor McLaglen, Peter Lorre and Walter Connolly are starred.

The Folsom riot started in the mess hall, and in the film a similar riot starts there when McLaglen, taunted as a "spy," goes over the table for the throat of his accuser. The outbreak, preconceived, is a signal for the wholesale prison-break attempt. Like its real-life counterpart, the screen break fails.

Walter Connolly, ace character actor, is seen in the role of the father of the missing "Nancy Steele." Peter Lorre, Europe's star of screen and stage, has the leading role, and June Lang plays Nancy Steele. Robert Kent aids Miss Lang in romantic scenes.

Worthy of something better than to be called an "added feature," the outdoor film, "Park Avenue Logger," supplies robust action and comedy on the program. George O'Brien is given more acting range than ever before in this story of the scion of a wealthy timber baron who believes his son to be a "softie" and sends him to one of his lumber camps to try and make a man of him.

However, what the father does not know is that O'Brien is really the "Masked Marvel," world's wrestling champion. When he wins his spurs as an expert lumberjack, the star aids a girl to make an

A drama of war on crime is "Public Hero Number 1," which opens Sunday at the State theater with Chester Morris in the starring role.

"Public Hero Number 1" deals with the pursuit of a notorious public enemy by a government operative. The officer goes to prison in order to worm information from a gangster about the leader of the gang, and is forced to take severe punishment in order to gain the gunman's confidence. They execute a daring jail break, make their getaway, and go to a secret hideout where the federal agent succeeds in getting in with the gang and eventually cleaning them out.

With Morris in the cast are Joseph Calleia, Jean Arthur, Lionel Barrymore, Paul Kelly and Lewis Stone.

The other feature on the bill is "Crack-Up," with Peter Lorre and Brian Donlevy in the principal roles, aided by Helen Wood, Ralph Morgan and Thomas Beck.

It is the story of daredevil airman who battle spies in a drama featuring air thrills. With the drama there is romance, and a surprising climax.

Important lumber shipment for crippled father, but is made the victim of a plotting foreman who exposes O'Brien as an impostor. How the hero apprehends the real conspirators, wins the girl's love and his father's admiration furnishes the climax.

Recent and Future Brides Prove to be Popular Incentives for Week-end Fetes

Marcia Huber
Is Honored
Today

The first of a series of gay pre-nuptial events complimenting Miss Marcia Huber, whose wedding to Kenneth Price will occur April 3, was given this afternoon by those two attractive sisters, Miss Loretta Spangler and Mrs. Don Plumb (Helen Spangler).

The affair was held in the gracious old Tustin home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Plumb, with attractive bowls of colorful spring flowers from her garden and from that of Mr. and Mrs. Cood Adams set at intervals throughout the roomy downstairs.

The hostesses had arranged that everyone should go together to purchase pieces of the crystal that the bride-elect has chosen, and many lovely goblets, plates and sherbet dishes were presented to her in their tissue wrappings at the close of the afternoon's bridge.

With the assistance of Mrs. Belle Spangler, her mother, and of Mrs. Plumb, a dainty tea course was served to Miss Huber, Miss Caroline Tucker of Long Beach, Miss Eleanor Rairdon, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, Mrs. Robert Guild, Mrs. William Jerome, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Irwin, Mrs. Manley Natland of Long Beach, Mrs. Hal Harlow of Ontario, Mrs. Clarence Ranney, Mrs. Ernest Stump, Jr., Mrs. Roger Hearne of Alhambra and Mrs. Q. L. Hardy.

Miss Huber was guest of honor at another delightful affair last night when she visited Miss Florence Nelson in El Segundo. The two had lived together during Miss Huber's three years teaching at the beach city, and Miss Nelson had asked Miss Vilma to join them at dinner.

At the close of a pleasant meal another little group of friends dropped in to complete an eight-some of bridge, and each brought the future bride some pretty gift from her future home at Stockton.

Those sharing in the surprise shower were the original four and Miss Christine Ketter, Miss Florence Chambers, Mrs. Helen Grace, and Mrs. Roma Noble.

HOOVER FACULTY

Binding
Of Books
Her Delight

Editor's Note: This is another of the series of articles on "Women in Unusual Occupations" which Dr. Mary E. Wright is preparing for The Journal. Others will follow.

By DR. MARY E. WRIGHT
As the only professional woman bookbinder in Orange county, Mrs. Gertrude Rider comes under this classification of women in unusual occupations, and her story makes up our column today.

Born in Marysville, Mo., Mrs. Rider was Gertrude Graves before her marriage, and her profession has been bookbinding all her life. At the age of 18 years, she became an employee of the John C. Coombs publishing house in St. Joseph, Mo. While there, she learned every phase of bookbinding—use of maintaining her interest in fine needlework, and the laying on of gold, and for the less expensive books, board, canvas, and cloth.

She next went up to the publishing house of Smith-Brooks company in Denver, where she stayed for eight years. In 1914, with one assistant, she was sent by her firm to Cheyenne, Wyo., to do the binding of the Session Laws for the court.

While in Denver, she was married to Aden E. Rider, and it was his break in health which brought them in 1920 to California.

Since coming west, Mrs. Rider has been associated with several publishing houses in Los Angeles, including the Billy Straube company, Young and McAllister, and the Independent Press company, and there, too, she helped bind public school annuals.

Coming to Santa Ana several years ago to make her home, she was employed for a time by A. G. Flagg in work on the telephone directory for 1935.

She is now an employee of the WPA, working at the county library in the department of re-binding and repairing books of the library and the county schools.

Through all the years in this one line of work, Mrs. Rider has kept the freshness and enthusiasm which first determined her career, maintaining her interest in fine books and fine bindings and finding at the same time a happy means of keeping her home together and providing for her family.

Members of the section will be served a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock in the clubhouse, prior to the talk which will start promptly at 1:45 p. m. Mrs. F. P. Nickey is hostess chairman, and members not planning to attend are asked to call her.

Honored At Luncheon

As a courtesy to a comparative newcomer in the city, Mrs. Fred Dunston of South Birch street, who came to Santa Ana to live just this winter, Mrs. Emil Wagner invited eight of her friends for luncheon and bridge this afternoon in her home at 530 South Birch street.

Being a middle-of-March party, Mrs. Wagner chose the St. Patrick theme for her appointments, centering the dining room table with a low white bowl filled with white stocks and anemone dyed green. Greenery around the base of the bowl and around the white tapers and their holders added to the effect of Irish green achieved in the other appointments, and the frilly green nut baskets with harp handles served as place markers.

After luncheon, little green and white pottery trivets were distributed among the guests and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in contract play. When prizes were awarded at the close Mrs. Wagner also presented a lovely guest award to her honored guest, who is her next-door neighbor.

Invited to meet Mrs. Dunston were the Mesdames I. F. Landis, Richard Couden, Charles Swanner, Harold Brown, U. H. Plavin, C. W. Nussbaumer, Arthur May, and Miss Ruth Armstrong.

By BETTY COX
So much chatter in the page today that we haven't room or time to do very much separate chattering, so we'll just touch the tops and tell you more next week.

One headline today might have read (though it didn't) "Four Generations Represented at Tea." These words are too long to put in one head, but readers will know through the story we note that among those at Mrs. Fred Rowland's and Mrs. J. Russell Wilson's (mother and daughter) luncheon this afternoon, Mrs. C. F. Crose, and Mrs. Wilson's little daughter, Bobby Jo. . . .

Dr. and Mrs. Perry Davis have been gathering "larks and penates" of their own to furnish the new apartment they have taken at 408 West Eighth street, and enjoying all the fun of buying just the kind of furniture they want.

The Calvin Flints have moved into their new home on Heliotrope Drive. . . .

HONORS CANADA
VISITORS AT AFTERNOON TEA

To introduce her friends to her sister-in-law, Mrs. O. Z. McGee, who arrived recently from Redvers, Saskatchewan, Canada, Mrs. George Gould entertained informally yesterday afternoon in her home on North Main street.

The guests brought their own fancy work and spent several pleasant hours sewing and chatting before the tea hour at the close.

Sharing in the honors of the day was another comparative newcomer to the city, Mrs. Ross McClellan, who was a resident of Mrs. Gould's former home town, Galesburg, Ill. Others enjoying the day together were Mrs. McGee, the Mesdames W. S. Buchanan, C. F. Skirvin, T. P. Kingrey, Charles L. Johnson, E. G. Summers, W. B. Martin, W. E. Dixon, A. W. Gerard, Fleetwood Bell, J. C. Sexton, M. D. Haskell and C. E. Price.

Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Dixon presided at the pretty tea table, which was centered with a low bowl of red sweet peas and spread with an Italian cutwork cloth. Freesias and calceolarias decorated the other rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. McGee are enjoying their visit in Southern California, and may possibly locate here permanently. Tomorrow, with the Goulds, they will have dinner with mutual friends in Long Beach.

SUPPER PARTY
AT EBERSOLE
HOME IN TUSTIN

Club members gathered in the John H. Ebersole home on North D street, Tustin, last night for a potluck supper, an informal evening, dispensing with their usual games of bridge in favor of just visiting.

Mrs. Ebersole seated the members at one long table set with many-colored pottery and centered with daffodils and mustard.

Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. James Workman, Mr. and Mrs. Don Park, Mr. and Mrs. John Lacy Taylor and the host and hostess.

MRS. ANDERSON
HOSTESS AT TEA

A double courtesy gesture was made yesterday afternoon when Mrs. James Anderson of South Garvey street entertained at a little sewing tea. Her guest of honor was Miss Katherine Musgrave of Illinois, who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Stanley Palmer, but when Mrs. Anderson presented her with a lovely bouquet of spring flowers, she also gave one to Mrs. James Merigold, whose birthday anniversary it was.

Those sharing in the pleasantly informal afternoon and enjoying the tea course at which Mrs. Merigold and Mrs. Musgrave poured were Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Clifford Quisell, Mrs. C. G. Dowds, Mrs. Ira Kruse, Mrs. Edward Lee Russell, Mrs. H. G. Wilson, Mrs. John Criddle, Mrs. Ralph Cole, Mrs. Frank Bigelow, Mrs. Wayne Tibbs, the two honor guests, and the hostess.

Daughter and Mother Give Luncheon

Partly at Rowlands Is Followed by Linen
Hemming Bee

Complimenting a future bride whom they have known since her babyhood, and a recent bride who is not only a member of their immediate family but newly wedded to the son of their very dear friends, Mrs. F. C. Rowland and her daughter, Mrs. J. Russell Wilson, entertained this afternoon in honor of Miss Eleanor Crookshank and Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Jr. (Betty Rowland).

A novel and delightful way of showering the two honorees was devised by the hostess-duo, and it proved also to be very pleasant for the assembled guests. Instead of the customary tables of bridge at the conclusion of a dainty luncheon, a pile of snowy linen kitchen towels for Miss Crookshank was distributed among half the guests, and an equally attractive assortment of colored lunch-napkins to complement Mrs. Stephenson's bridal pottery was given to the other guests, so that a happy afternoon was spent at conversation and profitable hemming.

Little Miss Bobbie Jo Wilson proved to be an alert assistant in her quaint frock of dotted swiss with matching hair-ribbon, and another colorful addition to the pottery joggled rooms was Mrs. J. M. Cloyes in the attractive southern costume with which she has delighted so many audiences while interviewing "Gone With the Wind." Among so congenial a group of friends she was even more pleasing and informal than usual, and her presentation proved to be a charming interlude of the afternoon.

J. E. GOWEN HOME IS SETTING FOR DESERT BRIDGE

The J. E. Gowen home on Spurgeon street was the scene of a charming desert luncheon Thursday when Mrs. Gowen entertained her bridge club.

Three small tables were centered with violets which lent their fragrance to the room, and the afternoon was spent in playing contract bridge. Mrs. Jessie White was awarded the guest prize.

Members present were Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. C. M. Rowland, Mrs. B. H. Shaples, Mrs. M. A. Beals and the hostess.

Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. Jessie White, Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. John Wehrly, Sr., Mrs. J. S. Smart, Mrs. Helen Babcock, and Mrs. Perry Lewis substituted for the members who were unable to be present.

CONTRACT CLUB ENTERTAINED BY
MRS. CHURCH

Mrs. Margaret Church entertained her contract club Friday afternoon in her home at 606 South Main street. White plum blossoms and green candles on the small tables carried out her color scheme, and tally cards were also in the St. Patrick's day theme.

An afternoon of bridge followed the luncheon.

The members who attended the affair were Mrs. Bertha Berry, Mrs. H. McVicar Smith, Mrs. A. N. Zerman and Mrs. Anna James. Mrs. J. Haas, and Mrs. Jack LaBue of Chicago were guest substitutes.

FINCHES TO BE SUPPER HOSTS

Mr. and Mrs. Braden Finch are complimenting Mrs. Thomas Glenn, recently back from a sojourn in France, at an informal buffet supper party tonight in their home on Panamora Heights.

Invited with the honor guest, who spent some time in France with her family, were Mr. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Hellis, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Revell and Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Plum.

DEMOLAY MOTHERS

Mother's of new DeMolay members are urged to attend a meeting of the DeMolay Mothers' circle Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Masonic temple. The circle will serve refreshments to the boys later in the evening.

Tables Reserved for Style Show Near 100 Mark

Spring is just a week away, and, bringing with it on its very first day Junior Ebells annual fashion show event, which is to be staged at the Ebell clubhouse next Saturday afternoon, it is one of the most eagerly anticipated dates of the end-of-March season. Under the general chairmanship of Mrs. George Walker, committees are doing those thousand and one things that always fill the final week before an affair of this magnitude.

To date, more than ninety tables have been reserved for the party, which will be in the nature of a dessert bridge, starting promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

However, more tables are to be set up in the lounge, where the modeling may also be seen to advantage, and reservations will be taken although the coming week, or as long as space in the clubhouse is available.

A dessert bridge, then a fashion show is the order of events for the afternoon, with music and a big surprise as added features for the pleasure of the guests. Recent announcement of a popular radio singer, Nibs White, as a part of the program has added to the anticipation of those having reserved tables, many having heard this favorite star on his Mutual network program at 5:45 p. m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The fact that the singer is a cousin of Mrs. J. Thoburn White, a member of Junior Ebells and chairman of music for the party, adds to the interest attached to his coming.

His accompanist will be Mrs. Christine Lambert of Orange, who will also play throughout the fashion review; and violin numbers by Miss Georgia Belle Walton of Santa Ana will round out the musical program.

Dresses, hats and coats from Southern children's models (a new departure this year) from the Betty Rose shop, furs from Olive Dullings, shoes from Peterson's are to be modeled by Junior and Senior Ebells members and Ebells children, including the Mesdames Charles McDaniel, Harold Dale, Q. L. Hardy, Clarence Ruggie, Herbert Hill, Ray Tarr, John Scripps, John Newman, Robert Guild, John Cloyes, Edward Walker, Julia Ann Hyde, and Miss Marian Brownridge. A noted designer, who has sketched many of the models to be shown, will discuss clothes while the show is being presented.

Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Raymond Smith, who announced a number of good tables still to be had in the foyer.

GARDEN CLUB TO MEET IN LABORATORY

Better Gardens club members will not only hear about "Daffodils," but will see them, when they meet next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the laboratory of J. Russell Bruff at the junior college.

Mr. Bruff, who is to be their speaker that evening, will show them these microscopic plants under the microscope as he explains their attributes. After the meeting, the club will go to the home of Miss Lana Brokaw, 416 West Pine street, for refreshments.

HARMONY BRIDGE

Harmony Bridge club is planning a no-hostess luncheon for next Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at Danier's tea room. After lunch, the group will go to the Masonic temple for bridge and a business session.

FETE GUESTS
FROM CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith of 811 West Pine street have as their house guests Miss Norma Clark and Mr. Sherman Langford of Chatham, Ontario, Canada.

A recent little dinner party in their home was very festive with green tapers and white satsuma blossoms decorating the table at which sat the Smiths, their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Barge of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Sarah Aulthouse of Los Angeles.

GRAND MATRON
HERE MONDAY

Hermosa, Santa Ana, Orange and Garden Grove chapters of the Order of Eastern Star will join in welcoming a visit from their worthy grand matron when they meet together next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Santa Ana Masonic temple.

Make Gay Spring Curtains Yourself

Here are clever spring draperies that you can stitch up in time for the first violet.

You let in spring sunlight—and you don't miss a trick in style—by using these long tie-backs instead of side draperies. Try a gold chintz, figured in green and rose, for tie-backs and scalloped valance. Edge with a smart corded binding of green. Curtains are sheer cream marquisette.

For tie-backs and valance make buckram foundations. Cover with chintz. For the full ends of tie-backs, just double the chintz; you don't need a foundation material. Tack the valance to a valance board screwed shelf-wise to window trim.

Our 32-page booklet gives you instructions and diagrams that are easy to follow for glass curtains, draw curtains, formal and informal draperies. How to make pinch pleats, valance boards, cornices.

Send 10c for your copy of How to Make Curtains and Draperies to The Journal, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

EASTER MUSIC PLANNED BY CHURCH

'Crucifixion' Also Is to Be Given on Palm-Sunday Here

Preliminary announcement was made today of the Easter music to be given soon at the First Methodist Episcopal church. In addition to the regular services in which the choir and soloists will participate, the festival season will be built around two great vespers services.

On Palm Sunday afternoon, April 21, at 5:30, the church choir will give a performance of Sir John Stainer's "Crucifixion." Soloists will be Wallace LeGras and Donald Krueger, baritone; Marquise Hare and Gustav Hoehler, tenors. Incidental bass solos will be sung by H. F. Kenny and C. L. Anderson.

On Easter Sunday afternoon the Cecilia singers will join the choir in a vespers concert in which the audience will participate through hymns and responses. Cecilia singers will be heard in Mascogne's "Scene and Prayer" and will join the choir in rendition of Clokey's hymn "Exultant," an Easter antiphon (chorus with antiphonal quartet) and Beethoven's Hallelujah chorus from the "Mount of Olives."

The choir of the junior church will participate and a double quartet of soloists will present two newly published arrangements of Easter carols by Harvey Gaul. Members of the double quartet include Elizabeth Morgan and Irma Rutter, sopranos; LaVerne Van Wyk and Laura Joiner, contraltos; Marquise Hare and Gustav Hoehler, tenors; H. F. Kenny and Donald Krueger, basses. The Easter vespers will be given at 5 p. m. Sunday, April 28.

INTER-RACIAL SERVICE HERE

An inter-racial service will be held tomorrow morning at the First Methodist church here, when the Rev. John C. Palacios of the Mexican Methodist Episcopal church will bring a group of his parishioners to attend the services conducted by the Rev. Dr. George Warner.

Representatives of the African Methodist Episcopal church led by the Rev. C. N. Austin also will attend, and the Rev. S. Nitta and a group of Japanese are expected to complete the assembly.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Vernon M. McCombs of the Latin-American mission.

Rev. Odgers at Richland Church

The Rev. J. H. Odgers, formerly of Chicago, and now living in Santa Ana, will fill the pulpit of the local Richland Avenue Methodist church for the next three Sundays, starting tomorrow.

The pulpit was vacated recently by the Rev. O. W. Reinius, who suffered a paralytic stroke. Evening services have been discontinued.

Methodists Fight Military Training

THORNE IN THE FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

Jesus Prays for His Disciples

For the past two weeks, we have looked in on the Passover Feast. We have seen how the shadow of death and of destiny was already over the circle of Jesus and His disciples, as He spoke concerning His mission and its fulfillment through sorrow and sacrifice.

Jesus has been talking to His disciples, but in our lesson today, found in John 16:5-7; 17:14-26 we find Him praying—talking to God. There is a vast difference in really praying and saying prayers.

To be in one's presence, and hear him pray is awe-inspiring—if he is really praying, and not merely saying prayers. I heard once of a great convention being held in Boston. A noted man was to offer a prayer. It was beautiful, and the audience was enthralled. A newspaper reporter was so touched he wrote concerning it, that "It was the most beautiful prayer ever uttered to a Boston audience." And no doubt he was right. It was offered to the audience, not to God.

But today we are taken by the apostles into His very presence while He prays to the Father. We note that He says that He prays not only for the apostles alone, but for believers down through the centuries. Here we see not only a single prayer in the upper room in Jerusalem, but also a continued prayer of intercession for all who believe. It was beautiful, and the audience was enthralled. A newspaper reporter was so touched he wrote concerning it, that "It was the most beautiful prayer ever uttered to a Boston audience." And no doubt he was right. It was offered to the audience, not to God.

Some would wonder why Jesus prayed for us. Well, Isaiah 59:16 and Romans 8:26 tell us that He is our intercessor. And among other reasons, today's lesson, verse 14, tells us, is because the world is our enemy. Verses 15, 17 offer another reason—that He desires the best for us, while verses 24, 26, reveal the prayer to be a manifestation of His love for us.

But let us analyze His prayer, and since it is for us, let it be answered in our lives. We note that Jesus prayed for all who believe (verse 20) that we might be kept from evil (v. 15); that we might be sanctified (v. 17); for Christian unity (v. 21); for eternal fellowship after life (v. 24) and that we might be workers with Him (v. 18).

Jesus prayed for the world elsewhere, but this particular prayer is not for the sinner, but for the believer. There must first be a conversion which changes men.

Every point in His prayer is worthy of strong emphasis, but since space forbids we will look at

Just two Sundays until Easter! Are you a regular attendant at church worship? If not, as a suggestion, why not attend the church of your choice now, so you'll feel "at home" when you attend Easter morning?

only two parts. First, that we might be sanctified. Many people are afraid of that word "sanctification," but it means simply a cleansing from sin and setting one's self apart to His service to the accomplishment of sacred things; a holy life. Who can object to that? Especially when Jesus Himself prayed to that end for us.

Then, too, let us look at unity. Jesus prays here for a heart unity, a unity of life and purpose. A unity that brings fellowship. Much has been said lately about church unions. No doubt this may be a good idea. But a union of denominations does not necessarily mean unity, while on the other hand there may be a strong sense of unity among various churches. I believe this to be the case in Santa Ana. There are various denominations—but existing between them is a bond of unity—of fellowship which mere rules could not make. A few months ago the local churches united for a week of prayer. Ministers changed pulpits. A spirit of unity and fellowship prevailed which was an uplift to the entire community! Jesus here, prays for a unity among believers, and between God and man.

I like to think of Jesus as our intercessor. A couple of years ago it was our pleasure in Santa Ana to hear that grand old patriarch, Dr. Henry Clay Morrison. His messages still linger in our memories; and, just now I am reminded of the story he told, how he had once broken the law and was arrested and thrown into jail. It was a story filled with pathos. He was a poor man and had no one to plead his case. He knew he had broken the law and would need pay the penalty. He feared and shook and cried, but tears were of no avail. Finally he was brought before the judge for sentence, with no one to plead his case. Then a young man came, put his arms around Dr. Morrison, and said, "Admit your guilt and throw yourself on the mercy of the court, and I will plead your case for you." And a pardon was forthcoming.

Yes, he had broken the law, and had been brought before the Judge of all time—God. He was guilty, and he knew it. But Jesus came down and put His arms around him tenderly and said, "I am the Judge's own son. Throw yourself on the mercy of the court and I will plead your case and make intercession for you."—And Dr. Morrison was pardoned of his sin and made a free man.

Jesus is at the Father's throne today as willing to make intercession for us now as He was in the upper room with His disciples. Shall we try to deny our guilt and receive the death sentence, or shall we admit that all we like sheep have gone astray, throw ourselves on His mercy, and allow His son, Jesus, to plead our case—that we may be pardoned and go free?

Magician of the Air

IN a recent editorial we called President Roosevelt the "magician of the air" and since that time enough brickbats have whizzed past our ears to build the foundation for another $8,000,000 supreme court building.

If they keep on coming, the postman soon may get fallen arches. (See today's Mailbag.)

These letters are so sincere and so to the point, that they deserve an answer. So we have chosen the longest and most vigorous as representative of the whole. It comes from Mr. Stanley Kurtz, Rte. 1 Box 450, Orange.

Reader Kurtz issues three challenges, and gives us
the alternative of answering any one of them.

We will go him two better than that and answer all three. Here goes.

Challenge No. 1—Prove from the U. S. constitution, or any other legal document, that the supreme court has the constitutional right to set aside any act of congress.

ANSWER—There is no express right in the constitution allowing the supreme court to declare void a statute of either the federal or state governments; nor has The Journal ever claimed there is. But the constitution provides (Art. III, Sec. 2 (1)) that the supreme court decide cases of private rights arising under the constitution or statutes. Consequently when a citizen complains that his private rights as guaranteed by the constitution are violated by some law, the supreme bench is called upon to interpret the situation. It has ruled during the past 140 years that some 300 federal and state laws have infringed upon private rights as established by the constitution. As a result, it has refused to uphold these laws.
This is what happened to the AAA, NRA and other laws.
This practice of the supreme court is the result of long procedure and seems to have had the general acceptance of the public until recently.

It may further interest our brickbat tossers to know that neither does the constitution expressly provide congress the right to increase or reduce the number of justices on the bench as President Roosevelt recommends.
This is another power that has been generally conceded
as emanating from other provisions.

It would be a good thing for everyone to re-read the constitution and refresh the memory on what it says. It is a brief document. It does not expressly provide for many of the now recognized functions of government. At best it sets up a general policy on fundamentals and leaves the rest to be worked out in practice.

Challenge No. 2—If you insist on trying to influence the opinions of the citizens of Orange county, will you at least be good enough to print the "other side" so that those who differ with you may have a chance to read somewhere near "all the news."

ANSWER—If Reader Kurtz will refer to The Journal of March 10 when the editorial in question appeared,
he will find that The Journal printed the supreme court story under its biggest and blackest 8-column headline on page one, that it ran a 2-column picture of the President alongside, and that it printed exactly one yard and 8 inches of Associated Press news from Washington covering Mr. Roosevelt's speech and Attorney General Cummings' attack on the court. We are sorry that F.D.R.'s talk was not given in full, but the important points were,
and the whole day's news regarding the administration's side of the matter was given an unusual amount of space and display. The Journal has consistently followed the policy of printing "the news on both sides" and, needless to say, will continue to do so.

Challenge No. 3—If you do not wish to meet me squarely on Challenge No. 1 or 2, then have the goodness to print this letter so that some brave soul may have the privilege of "leading me out of the darkness into light."

Mr. Kurtz' letter is carried in today's Mailbag. His challenges may be read there in full, as it was necessary to brief them somewhat in this editorial to clarify the points at issue.

And now we would like to invite Mr. Kurtz to answer a few questions which his letter brings up:

1. Where in the "Magician of the Air" editorial have we accused Mr. Roosevelt of insincerity?
2. In what way has The Journal tried to prevent anyone from learning what Mr. Roosevelt says about the court?

An appropriate way to end this little discussion, so far as we are concerned, is to quote from our first editorial stand on the court packing plan, taken Feb. 15—

We think a lot of President Roosevelt; he helped save the country when things were going to smash.

But we don't think enough of him—or of any other president who has lived or who will come—to approve a plan that indirectly will make the constitution mere clay in his hands.

Any changes in the fundamental way of doing things should be made openly and directly by the people through amendment. This is their privilege and their right.

If they surrender it to any partisan administration, they will be the losers when this right is abused.

Placerville man credits his 101 years to a habit of eating onions and garlic. But is it worth it?

A Bitter Reward

DR. TOWNSEND is paying a bitter price for the privilege of awaking America to the plight of its aged.
That jail sentence and fine is quite a reward for such service.

Of course, the Long Beach physician wasn't the first man to point out that industry discards elderly men and women in ruthless fashion and that periodic depressions wipe out what little they might have saved for a rainy day.

But he was the first to impress the stark reality of it upon the nation at large in an emphatic and effective way.

We doubt if even the members of the Bell investigating committee feel at all happy over the situation they have created.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

All my remembering years I have been a push-over for a clear, cold winter night. Night with the glitter of mirror and scattered stars atwinkle in a heaven of frost blue. No sound like the zip of the crunch of snow or the ringing sharp jingle of sleigh bells. Others may sing of the almond blossom
and the cherry sprays, but my vote goes to a stark lonely tree
silhouetted on a snow-flung hill, bathed in the glow of a distant moon. I was thinking tonight of our hemmed-in winter on a Missouri farm before I went to Ohio
to live with Grandma McIntyre.

The Stork club's glittering dazzle never had the luster and cheer of that flare from the back-log in the family sitting-room with the cat asleep on the carpet footstool
and old dog, Clay, the red setter, stretched out pleasantly atwilt
with dreams of the chase.

Grandma Young on one side of parlor lamp, invariably smugged black up on chimney side, knitting. Grandpa on the other, reading the Farmer's Almanac, as the day grayed and chickens took to roost. At 8 o'clock prayers, warming of flanels, and up the creaky stairs to dreamless sleep.

Shortly before her recent passing, my sister in Kansas City resurrected out of an old humpedback horseshair trunk salvaged
from the Missouri attic our old-fashioned coffee mill—the sort put between the knees and vigorously turned. The little drawer where the grounds fell was still aromatic coffee. I've heard coffee had the most clinging of all odors, and this rather proves it. The mill had not been used for 25 years. The tang from the kitchen as the breakfast coffee was being ground was a scent from Araby.
A beglamouring bensation of a crisp winter morn.

To the kitchen, Jed, the hired man, his sweat-stained hat abaf, ungloved hands the wimpled raw red of the rooster comb, came plunging with his load of freshly chopped wood. The gleam and zing of a bright axe biting into wood is always provocative somehow, and I don't know why. Jed's greatcoat and muffler were powdered with snow, and his wibbly mustaches rimmed with frost. In later years one of the rustic characters in "Way Down East," Hi Holler, was so much like Jed I sought him out in his dressing-room in Dayton, Ohio. But it was only footlight illusion. He was a Brooklyn boy, smoked Turkish Trophies and was on the mash.

The highlights of my Missouri winters were the "table" at the clapboard meeting house, and twice a year arrival of Mr. Solomon, the Polish pack peddler. Mr. Solomon had a straggly coil of beard, deep-set, fever-bright eyes, a ringer for red of the livestock fidgeted.
Grandpa built up a roaring fire and was reading to us from Hawthorne's "The House of Seven Gables," when came a calm, the wind suddenly rose, and through the windows we could see the sturdy oaks and mighty maples in tossy-turvy strain. Jed started for well water but turned back.
"Ain't fittin' for man or beast," he grumbled. There was eerie whistling in the chimney. As Poe once wrote, "Windows tugged at hinges and doors chattered. Terrorized birds wheeled and flung frail chirps across the boom. We heard a thud, and the cow shed flattened out like a pancake, filling the air with startled moowings.
Old Clay's rufous fur rose as he circled stiff-legged with throating growls. Sister and I were in the delicious ecstasy of fear and thrill.
The end of the world perhaps!"

The old four poster, with its mountainous pile of feathers, was especial joy that blizzard night.
So morning came, with the sun in
a burst of gorgeous splendor, a gauzy spread of violet, orange and
pink. The air clean, cold, brittle.
Our farm land was a freshly swept
world in glittering enchantment.
They brought in Aunt Doris' pet
lamb, half frozen, from the south
meadow but, wrapped in blankets
and put behind the kitchen stove,
it was soon itself again. Mr.
Dockerty, the mail man, was unable to reach us for two days, and
the Kansas City Star called it the worst storm of a century.

So morning came, with the sun in
a burst of gorgeous splendor, a
gauzy spread of violet, orange and
pink. The air clean, cold, brittle.
Our farm land was a freshly swept
world in glittering enchantment.
They brought in Aunt Doris' pet
lamb, half frozen, from the south
meadow but, wrapped in blankets
and put behind the kitchen stove,
it was soon itself again. Mr.
Dockerty, the mail man, was unable to reach us for two days, and
the Kansas City Star called it the
worst storm of a century.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The famous brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, this week is presented to Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona, chief puncturer of senatorial stuffed
shirts, chairman of the judiciary committee, and a man whose philosophy of public office he has expressed like this:

"In the senate you are on roller skates. You go partly where you like to go and partly where the skates take you."
The Ashurst skates are now
taking him out to do battle for
the President on the field of judicial reform, and Henry Fountain
is fighting just as hard as if he had initiated the battle himself.

WASHINGTON—Out of the tension and turbulence of the senate supreme court hearings emerges one central figure, unflustered, unhurried, and unabashed that at heart he has no enthusiasm for the Roosevelt judiciary plan.

He is Henry Fountain Ashurst, first senator from Arizona, chief puncturer of senatorial stuffed
shirts, chairman of the judiciary
committee, and a man whose
philosophy of public office he has
expressed like this:

"In the senate you are on roller
skates. You go partly where you
like to go and partly where the
skates take you."
The Ashurst skates are now
taking him out to do battle for
the President on the field of judicial reform, and Henry Fountain
is fighting just as hard as if he

OLD WARRIOR
This is not a new game to the senator from Arizona. In an emergency he can always turn on the fire and feeling. During the floor-fight on Boulder dam, Ashurst was in the vanguard of the attack, waged a furious filibuster against the bill. Privately, he did not care a snap of his fingers about Boulder dam. But his state was against it. So he got as lathered up as the spotted pinto he used to ride over the deserts of Arizona.

He even hinted that dark and mysterious violence might be wreaked upon those who favored Boulder dam.
On another occasion, South Carolina's eccentric Cole Blaise was denouncing Woodrow Wilson.
Democratic senators writhed at the attack, but none cared to tangle with the vitriolic Cole.
Suddenly Ashurst got the floor,
remarked:

"I want to observe for the benefit of the senator from South Carolina that when Prometheus was bound to a rock, it was a buzzard that ate his liver, not an eagle."

DESERT LAWYER
Ashurst has served continuously in the senate for 25 years. Only Senator Borah and Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina out-rank him.

Born in Nevada in 1874, he migrated with his parents by covered wagon to Arizona, where they staked out a small ranch near the town of Williams. There young Ashurst rode range, later went to

SUPREME COURT ISSUE

To the Editor: I note with no small amount of disappointment that you have not seen fit to print
the President's speech. It so happened that I had an engagement at the time the speech was delivered which precluded the possibility of my hearing it, and I had hoped that I might have the opportunity to read it and decide for myself upon its merits.

I note, however, that you did see fit to cast some rather unfortunate reflections on these poor souls in the neighborhood of Santa Ana, who, like the poor Indians to whom you referred in your editorial, were bamboozled by the great Magician of the Air.

Now in all seriousness, it would seem to me that such tactics far from come up to the good old American custom of granting all due allowance for the expression of differences of opinion. It would seem that you were very much afraid that the people of Orange county were so unable to think for themselves that you not only needed to "dunk" them, but also to prevent those, who did not get to hear the speech, from even reading for themselves, thereby not coming quite so completely under the "spell" of the Magician.

Let us proceed further. You apparently, since you feel that your little "Literary Digest" "proved" something, have proceeded upon the assumption that it was necessary to harp on the value of duly protecting the beleaguered supreme court. Tonight's tirade was the most disgraceful of all that you have perpetrated, because you came right out in the open and accused the President of insincerity in his talk. Now please be informed, Mr. Editor, that because you have your doubts as to his sincerity does not necessarily mean that every other person in Orange county shares your position.

Now, to get down to "brass tacks." Since I still have confidence in your sincerity when you say that your paper attempts to be unbiased, at least in the policy of printing all the news, rather than just what you feel that the people of Orange county should—and if the President's speech was not news, I rise to inquire what is? I therefore call upon you to prove it by meeting one of the three challenges which I therefore categorically herewith list.

First, that you come out in the open and prove, logically and with documentary citations, both from the U. S. constitution, or any other legal document, that the supreme court has the constitutional right to set aside any act of congress. Congress, not the U. S. constitution, granted the supreme court the right to pass on the constitutional validity of its acts, and therefore it follows that the same congress may remove completely, amend by legal enactment, may abridge, or add to that right.

Second, that you either attempt to refute the implied opinions in proposition of Challenge One or attempt to be fair to all sides of controversial issues. The Los Angeles Times, to my knowledge has not resorted to such a trick as yours. It prints the President's speeches in full every time he makes one, even though, as we all know, editorially at least, it is one of the President's bitterest opponents. If you insist on trying to influence the opinions of the citizens of Orange county, at least be good enough to print the "other side" so that those who differ with you, or who at least enjoy being hoodwinked, may have a chance to read somewhere near to "all of the news."

Third, if you do not wish to meet me squarely on Challenge One or Two, then have the goodness to print this letter so that some brave soul may have the privilege of "leading me out of the darkness into light."

STANLEY KURTZ.

NOTHING BUT CONTENT

To the Editor: Your editorial
"Magician of the Air" deserves nothing but contempt. It's to be regretted that newspaper readers are forced to have some editor's reactionary editorials staring at them whenever they pick up a newspaper.

A READER (no name).

P. S. I thought we had one liberal paper in the county.

One Man's Opinion

By X-REPORTER

MOON-STRUCK

You'll hear airplane pilots talk about the "feel" of a ship. It's a pretty important part of flying.
Some individuals can never acquire it, and when they cannot,
the sooner they quit trying to be air pilots the better.

Sometimes fine orchestra leaders have to practice for quite a while with a symphony orchestra before they are able to establish between themselves and the orchestra the "feel" that means proper rapport, perfect accord and the understanding that achieves perfect music.

Newspaper editors have to have that intangible, indefinable "feel" for their city. Each city has its own peculiar tone and purpose, its heart and soul. An editor who lacks that feel or who loses it is in almost as sad a plight as the airplane pilot mentioned above.

I suppose I've known a hundred newspaper editors or more in the years I've been helping to put newspapers together, and only two that I can think of offhand who were definitely out of tune with the city in which they were editing.

So, you see, it isn't a common newspaper malady, this lack-of-feel, but it is fatal. Both of the cases I mentioned ended in absolute divorce—the city doing the divorcing in both cases.

If I ever take unto myself another newspaper—which I may or may not, but here's hoping—I'm going to court the city of my choice as religiously as I did a certain lady about a generation ago.

This will be an intellectual rather than an emotional courtship, however. There will be no taffy, no spooning in the park, no poetical persiflage.

I'll keep night and day watch over my city as if she were a princess in an ivory tower. I'll know her every whim and fancy.
I'll know her moods and her tempers and passions.

I'll not be any lovesick swain who will roll over or play dead on command. No sir! My city and I will respect each other fully and generously.

I've seen a lot of American cities in my time. And I've never seen one yet that was not chiefly admirable in the sum total of its traits and characteristics. The love of a good and courageous editor is a fine thing for any city.

Skinny Scribbles

Around
and About Town

With

Encountered Herman Zabel as the guest speaker at the Laguna Beach Rotary club yesterday. He talked about finger-printing, and gave the Chinese credit for the discovery. Lot of you folk who think the Chinese are just Chinese should delve into the archeological history of the nation made famous by Confucius and Kublai Khan. They first established the system of finger-print identification. It has been adapted by the criminologists of America, who are doing very well with it in the detection of criminals. Herman brought a number of cases within the local horizon in which convictions were obtained and identifications established.

Anyway, the smoke we get from orchard heaters soothes no one's nerves.

An observation: Little old lady leaning heavily upon the arm of her companion, left arm helpless, motivation indicating paralysis,
and ill health an apparent conclusion. As against the pathetic background I rub against a healthy grouch who was sore at the world, and his only contribution was a complaint against this and that. He was sick also, but his trouble was dyspepsia and mental irascibility. The little old lady was not complaining, probably thanking God her condition was no worse. My sympathy instinctively turned to the little old lady.

I could write a paragraph about the rain but it would be all wet,
so let's skip it.

If we are to have streamline trains why not carry out the scheme into the personnel and have streamline employees. Guess I'll ask Claude Lindsey about it.
But he won't be in favor of the plan. He wouldn't fit into the schedules.

Harry V. Hanson and his little playmate, Milan Miller, persuade me to leave town and go as far as Laguna, under the promise of providing a lunch. Heretofore my faith has been without mental resolution or equivocation, but since the journey to Laguna some changes have occurred, which it is not necessary to mention. I found out that there was no change in the mileage, just individuals.

Those "observers" who relate to me instances of traffic violations are telling their troubles to the man without. I'm not a cop, not on the police force or a member of the secret 50, assuming that there is a secret 50, which I doubt.
See Casey, or some of the boys in uniform. I'm busy.

Grain men welcomed the rain.
The orange growers did not need
it. The recent winds dried the top soil, which was not so good for grain. Now the gentle rain comes to soften up the earth and both the grain and orange men are happy at the same time, all of which happened without their assistance.

Harold Mathews appeared at the Breakfast club Thursday a m. dishable. He looked like the spirit of youth, and that is not what you thought I was going to say. Rather than be late Harold decided to appear scantily rather than fully dressed. He saved ten cents that way.

Art Peterson, of the South Coast News, published at Laguna in case you do not know it, when asked how he was getting along with his competition, says he was doing well attending to his own business. Now there's more philosophy in that answer than many people in the "white collar" workers who are supposed to have the disconcerting.

Ever hear of Ali Baba and the forty thieves? Well, there is an illustration of Morgiana on the calendar in front of my typewriter and I'll be glad when it's time to turn the page. The picture of Morgiana disturbs my thought continuity. If you do not understand what I mean come in and I'll show you the reason.

I met a flock of employees from a certain utility company going to work a few mornings ago, at 8 o'clock. They were still working at 5 o'clock, all happy, none complaining, all interested in their work and contributing their best to make the concern go, not for the selfish purpose of holding their jobs, but for the broader purpose of keeping the company in the profit column so the thousands of people who had invested their money in the company's stock which made the organization possible could get dividends. At the same time the public was given a continuous and economic service. Can you provide a situation where all those concerned were more mutually helpful? And yet these are the "white collar" workers who are supposed to have the agitation launches his vituperation.
Blessed are the contented, and may we have more of them.
